

RETENTION OF ATLANTA'S PRESENT GAS RATES ADVISED BY COMMISSION EXPERT AT HEARING

Reparations Reduction Demand Heard in Capital

NATION BEARING EUROPE'S BURDEN, C. OF C. IS TOLD

Plea for Aid of Business Leaders in Reopening of Debt Discussions Asked by Dr. Bergmann in Washington Address.

BRITISHER SCORES PRESENT TARIFF

America Is Center of Attacks During Day's Deliberations of International Leaders.

WASHINGTON, May 7.—(AP)— Outbursts against present war debt payments to the United States and the Smoot-Hawley tariff led to a plea at the International Chamber of Commerce banquet tonight for world cooperation in combating the difficulties that beset business.

Dr. Carl Bergmann, former German secretary of state for finance, late in the day had contended reparations were proving an unreasonable burden on Germany, that those payments were linked with allied debt settlements with this country, and the whole matter was a disturbing factor in international economies that had to be reconsidered.

Counseling patience, Georges The-un, former Belgian premier, reminded the chamber at the Washington auditorium dinner that it did not deal with political questions.

"What we are seeking," he said, "is to be helpful to those who govern the nations by expressing our minds and offering the advice that our experience of business dictates."

Dr. Bergmann emphasized the importance of reparations and debt settlements on the international economic structure and the fact that they have been linked together to all interests and purposes.

He called upon the international chamber to foster with all its power the reconsideration of the settlements.

An attack on the American tariff
by Henry Bell, an English banker, was applauded at length. He contended this country had failed to appreciate the duties incumbent upon it in its new position as a creditor nation, concluding "we ask them to rise to the responsibility of their great position."

"It is an attitude of one part of the world, if not of more, to be most anxious to sell its goods, but to be very careful that it should not buy anybody else's goods in exchange," he said. "What is hurting the world most today is, I think, a misconception on the part of the great nation whose guests we are. They are magnificent hosts, but they are awfully poor customers."

Advised Against Debt Talk.
Dr. Bergmann said he had been advised that the debts question was "a matter which had better not be brought up before this conference, because it is of the highest political importance."

Plunging into the subject, he said
"under the Young plan Germany has to pay her several creditors what they owe to the United States, so that the full burden of the international debts falls upon Germany."

Dr. Albert Michelson Declared Near Death

PASADENA, Cal., May 7.—(AP)—
Dr. Walter Bliss, attending physician, said tonight that Dr. Albert A. Michelson, 78-year-old dean of American physicists, lapsed into unconsciousness at 5:30 p. m., as a result of a sudden turn for the worse in his condition.

Dr. Bliss said death apparently was near. Dr. Michelson has been ill for a month.

Dr. Michelson, former head of the physics department of the University of Chicago, was taken ill while conducting his final and most ambitious experiment—an attempt to eliminate the minute fractional error in his computation of the speed of light by flashing a beam 10 miles from mirrors in a mile-long vacuum tube.

Bee's Sting Restores Speech Lost 20 Years

SCRANTON, Pa., May 7.—(AP)—
The sting of a bumble bee is said to have brought back the speech Mrs.
Alice Collins, 61, Oliphant borough, lost 20 years ago through paralysis of the throat.

Unable to speak, Mrs. Collins, who was removed to a hospital a month ago, was wheeled out to the lawn of the hospital yesterday.

Suddenly she screamed. A bee had stung Mrs. Collins, who found her speech had returned.

SCHOOL REFORM PROGRAM GIVEN SUPPORT BY KEY

Every Force of Administration Behind Sweeping Changes Recommended by Commission.

Every force at the disposition of the administration will be thrown into the effort to carry out the sweeping reforms in Atlanta's educational system which were recommended Thursday by a special commission named by Mayor James L. Key to study the existing systems and to "act to permanently solve the fiscal difficulties from which the schools perennially suffer."

The recommendations affect every phase of the public educational system, beginning with financial and ending with pedagogical problems, and are the most drastic changes ever proposed.

Walter H. Rich, chairman, formally filed the findings of the commission with Mayor James L. Key Thursday morning, stating simply that the work of the commission is done, that the changes recommended were decided on after a two months' thorough study of the problems confronting educational leaders and indicating that they are final insofar as the commission is concerned.

They will be offered to council at its next session, May 18, for action of that body and every effort will be made to place the council squarely behind them.

Salient recommendations of the commission follow:
1. Abolition of the present board of education, one from each of the 13 wards, and substitution of authority of six members, elected by the entire city, to be in office for six years instead of three; two to be named each year with overlapping terms thus preserving the system by continuity of administration.

2. Lopping of one year from the 13 now required for graduation, thus having only 12 grades. This would necessitate elimination of kindergarten by supplanting the K-3-3 plan under which the schools operate, or a fourth elimination of one of the other grades.

3. Raising the percentage of the borough's revenue allocated for school purposes from 27 per cent as at present to 30 per cent and forcing the department to live within that income, exclusive of interest and sinking funds on bonds.

4. Meeting the temporary money crisis by raising water rates 50 per cent until the estimated total deficit of $800,000 which will accrue at the end of the year is wiped out.

5. Establishment of a revolving fund for the purchase of new equipment.

Public Service Commission Hears Expert on Gas Rates

COMPANY REFUSES FREE CITY LIGHTS

Power Company Cannot Give Whiteways Electricity, Says Official.

On the basis of approval Thursday by Mayor James L. Key of a council ordinance requiring the Georgia Power Company to place two men on all street cars operating in Atlanta, W. E. Mitchell, vice president and general manager of the company, declined in the name of the firm to donate $40,000 in electrical energy toward keeping all whiteway lamps burning for the remainder of the year.

In declining to accede to the request of the mayor, Mr. Mitchell said that action of the council on the street car question would cost the company more than $500,000 annually, if carried out, and made a counter proposal to purchase from the borough $180,000 worth of poles which the municipality owns and apply that amount to the electrical bill.

The mayor and members of council's electric lights committee already have declined that offer previously, and hope of averting dimming of more than half of the whiteway lights was dissipated.

A court battle over the authority of Atlanta to force the company to discontinue use of one-man street cars will be made by the company, Preston
S. Arkwright, president of the power company, has announced.

Text of Mr. Mitchell's letter to Mayor Key follows:
"We have given consideration to your letter of May 6, in which you request that the Georgia Power Company donate to the city of Atlanta free street lighting to the extent of approximately $40,000.

"I am confident you will agree that the Georgia Power Company has been consistently generous in its contributions to the support of any and all enterprises for the general welfare of Atlanta. Particularly has it been liberal in its dealings with the city of Atlanta, its contribution of $400,000 a few years ago toward the construction of the new city viaducts being a case in point."

Mayor James L. Key Thursday morning approved a council resolution setting up $34,000 as the borough's share for the work, following action of the Fulton county commissioners Wednesday in guaranteeing the other half.

Rebuilding of the Broad street structure will leave only one old viaduct in the central business district, the Whitehall street bridge, all others having been replaced in recent months.

Mr. Scott lauded members of the county commission for assisting the borough in financing the Broad street project, declaring it will make possible replacement of an ancient and dangerous structure, which is an ever-present menace to life and property.

Members of the Central Marietta Street Association backed rebuilding of the Broad street bridge after C. E.
Kauffman, borough bridge engineer, declared in a survey that it was dangerous.

The $34,000 the borough allocated for the bridge is to be taken from the $35,000 it obtained Thursday in final settlement of the lease controversy between the borough and Carling Hotel, Inc., over the old city hall site lease.

Jesse and B. Graham West, represents the contractor representing the borough, effected the final settlement.

State Clashes With Federal Authorities Over Auto Tags

Right of Georgia To Enforce Motor Vehicle Laws Against U. S. Prohi Agents Question at Issue.

Whether federal prohibition operations are immune to penalties of Georgia law in cases of violation of the motor vehicle act appeared to be the question to be answered next Thursday in a United States court as the result of a clash of authority between ranking government officials and high officers of the state of Georgia.

Growing out of the arrest Tuesday by state officers of F. R. Clark, a federal officer using "undercover" methods of trapping bootleggers by driving a car with only one license tag, and without a prohibition officer's emblem, the controversy developed to a tense pitch Wednesday when United States District Attorney Clint Hager and two federal officers went to the homes of the state officers and took them in custody on the charge of conspiracy against the government of the United States and of interference with a federal officer in the performance of duty.

The Georgia officers, Andrew O.
Derrick, of the state revenue commissioner's department, and J. W. Slade, an inspector for the secretary of state, were placed under temporary bonds of $1,000 each on the charges preferred by Hager. Derrick is the son of Sheriff P. W. Derrick, of the Georgia court of appeals. He and Slade took Clark, the federal officer, into custody at Hunter and Forsyth streets Tuesday afternoon, and gave him a copy of charges for alleged violation of the state law.

Following the initial arrests and doctored charges by representatives of both the state and the government,
Secretary of State George Carwell, in reply to orders from Attorney Hager to federal prohibition men to arrest Clark, Clark was taken to the county jail.

Derrick and the Walsh girl bore slight hurts, police said, which might have been from plaster chipped from walls by gunfire.

Fully 7,000 persons crowded about the battle zone, watching one of the most dramatic captures in local police annals. Reserves of uniformed police held the crowds out of danger while detectives invaded the four-story rooming house, swarmed over adjoining roofs or poured volleys through shattered windows into the three-room hideout of Crowley and his pals.

In the midst of a quiet uptown neighborhood, a two-story apartment and old-fashioned home, the din of the fray could be heard for blocks. Not a pedestrian was hit by the 1,000 or more shots exchanged in the long siege. Only one bullet found an officer, and it was glanced from a holster worn by Police Lieutenant Christopher Saltisder.

Soon after Crowley and his companions had been taken out of the house police announced they had confessions from both men of connection with the Brannen and Hirsch slayings.

Crowley also, it was stated, had admitted to the slaying of the Walsh girl.

NEW YORK POLICE CAPTURE KILLER

Thousands Watch Battle Preceding Surrender of
"Two-Gun" Crowley.

NEW YORK, May 7.—(AP)— Francis Crowley, 20, hunted for two years in connection with the slayings of a two-hour battle against 100 police armed with machine guns and tear gas bombs. He was taken in an apartment in West Ninetieth street, a block from Broadway and Riverside drive.

Wounded in arms, legs and body, and shouting that his last shot had been fired, Crowley gave up the fight.
With him were taken Rudolph Durlinger, sought as the slayer of Virginia Brannen, dance hall hostess, near Yonkers April 27, and Helen Walsh, Crowley's companion on a motor party which early Wednesday led to the fatal shooting of Patrolman Frederick Hirsch near North Merrick, Long Island.

Durlinger and the Walsh girl bore slight hurts, police said, which might have been from plaster chipped from walls by gunfire.

Fully 7,000 persons crowded about

Lady Astor Scores Imported Speakers

LONDON, May 7.—(AP)—Lady Astor told the American Women's Club Thursday that what surprised her most about women's clubs in America was the kind of people they invite from Europe to address them.
"There have been young men not yet out of college, aggressive in manner, today with no sympathy for woman's position, who have been invited to address women's clubs in the United States," she said. "American women are doing nothing to further the cause of women in the world if they continue to invite this kind of upstart."

DEFIANCE OF AIDE TO BISHOP CANNON HALTS FUND PROBE

Nye's Committee To Ask Senate To File Contempt Case Against Miss Burroughs.

BY FRANCIS M. STEPHENSON.
WASHINGTON, May 7.—(AP)—Defied by a woman witness, the senate campaign funds committee was halted abruptly today in its inquiry into the disposition of anti-Smith funds by Bishop James Cannon, Jr., in the 1928 campaign.

Miss Ada L. Burroughs, of Richmond, Va., the treasurer of the Southern Methodist churchmen's anti-Smith organization, left the stand after declining to answer more than a score of questions in the face of a warning of possible prosecution.

Later, Chairman Nye of the committee said, "Certainly we will have to cite her to the senate for contempt."

Harry F. Sinclair, millionaire oil operator, was cited for a refusal to testify before a senate committee. He served four months in jail.

Senator Nye also said he would call the committee together next week to consider information now before it
"which may be found the basis for a report to the senate of a violation of the federal crime laws."

During the questioning of Miss Burroughs he said: "We have evidence here of a violation of the corrupt practices act."

Miss Burroughs startled the committee when she said in a mild tone, after reading a prepared statement, that "I most respectfully decline to give any testimony in this investigation."

In her prepared statement, which she submitted as she took the stand, Miss Burroughs denied the legality of the senate resolution authorizing the inquiry and challenged the constitutionality of the federal corrupt practices act—which Bishop Cannon is accused of violating by Representative Tinkham, republican, Massachusetts.

Bishop Cannon, who sent a similar protest to the committee, sat near Miss Burroughs, resting his chin on one of his crutches as she stood her ground against the repeated questioning by Senator Nye. He later gave a copy of Miss Burroughs' statement to the press.

Shifting around in her seat at the start, Miss Burroughs finally sat back easily, her hands clasping a purse, as she spoke her mild "I decline to testify." Occasionally she said, "I have nothing further to add to my statement."

After being once dismissed, she was recalled for further questioning.
"You are aware of the possible consequences attendant upon your action?" inquired Chairman Nye.

"Yes," she said.
"Let there be no mistake," said
Chairman Nye.

MAYSON LEADING ATLANTA'S FIGHT ON HIGH SCHEDULE

Borough Attorney Starts
Cross-Examination of

DR. BAUER ENTERS HIS APPEARANCE

Recommending retention of the present gas rate structure in Atlanta and a customer—or service—charge of $1, "or as low as possible," Professor H. E. Riggs, Ann Arbor, Mich., engineer and expert employed by the Georgia public service commission, expressed the opinion Thursday that "it is the very worst time to ask for an increase in utility rates."

At the same time Professor Riggs, who has twice before appraised the property of Atlanta gas companies and testified as an expert in rate hearings here, told the commission—on cross-examination—that he did not believe a reduction possible under present circumstances.

Cross-examination, with James L.
Mayson, Atlanta borough attorney, taking the lead—began Thursday afternoon. Various experts who have been on the stand to detail their investigations both at the instance of the public service commission and of

Edison Says Soviet Rubber, Made From Oil, Only Myth

FORT MYERS, Fla., May 7.—(P)—Thomas A. Edison, grand old man of the creative world, took time off from his rubber experiments here today to brand reports of successful extraction of rubber from crude oil in Russia as a "fake."

The aged inventor had just read an account of Soviet experiments with crude oil.

"I don't think the Moscow report is true," Mr. Edison said. "I don't believe one can get good rubber from oil. I would even go so far as to say oil rubber is a fake."

"The Russians, to my knowledge, are working on extraction of rubber from the guayule plant, which is now being grown successfully in the United States. I think they also are working on other plants, but they had better stick to the guayule, because it is the best rubber producer outside the tropics."

The inventor declined to discuss his own rubber experiments except to report his progress with golden rod as "satisfactory."

Further discussing the Russian experiments with plants, Mr. Edison said "they have five or six rubber producing plants in Russia, while I have discovered 1,245 plants in America containing rubber."

Mr. Edison told of a company headed by George N. Carnahan in the Salinas Valley of California which has 6,000 acres planted to guayule from which the producers plan to harvest 2,000 acres a year and crush for rubber. The shrub is said to contain between 14 and 19 per cent rubber, depending upon its age. Carnahan started his experiments in 1910, eight years before Edison started with golden rod.

Speaking of synthetic rubber, the inventor said today he doubted if it ever would be practical.

"The ingredients cost more than the rubber, which makes the experiments impractical," he explained. "The great German dye trust has experimented with synthetic rubber and has taken out many patents but none is practical."

He hastened to explain that the rubber he gets from golden rod is in no way synthetic but real rubber. Likewise, he said, guayule rubber is genuine.

Asked whether the United States would ever seriously compete with rubber grown in the tropics, the inventor pondered long and replied: "I would not say it was impossible. Time will tell the tale."

Speaking of Russia again, the white-haired wizard was emphatic in saying he believed the Soviet five-year plan would succeed but at the same time he doubted the efficiency of Russian communistic industry over a period of years because "property in common has never been successful." Although it has been tried many times and under many conditions, he said, it has always failed in the long run.

Mr. Edison thought there was small chance for a communistic regime in the United States.

"The Russian plan would never work in this country," he said. "To begin with, you never could get the American people under control to the extent that the Russians have been controlled. It is impossible."

RUMANIA REFUSES ENTRY TO GERMANS

International Incident Develops Over Trade Pact Negotiations.

BUCHAREST, May 7.—(P)—The refusal of the Rumanian government to permit a German commercial treaty delegation to enter Bucharest while the conference of the little entente is sitting, has developed into a diplomatic incident.

The government suddenly broke off negotiations, although the German representatives were already on their way.

The charge d'affaires of the German embassy today informed the Rumanian foreign minister that the German delegates had been slighted "in a most uncivil manner," and that Germany would wait before reopening negotiations.

Commercial circles here were distressed over the affair.

They learned that Germany was willing to make favorable concessions to secure the commercial treaty. She was willing to bind herself, it was learned, to buy 150,000 carloads of Rumanian oats and 50,000 tons of wheat, at favorable prices, and was prepared to grant a considerable loan even before the treaty was signed.

The prevailing belief here was that Rumania was prepared to proceed with negotiations but that Czechoslovakia and Yugoslavia, other members of the entente, reminded her of their duty toward the union and toward France.

The wishes of the other two countries, it was said, were conveyed to King Carol when he and King Alexander met Monday. Following the meeting, King Carol is said to have instructed Foreign Minister Ghika and Finance Minister Argenteanu to discontinue the German negotiations.

VIENNA, May 7.—(P)—Dispatches from Bucharest tonight said that an official report published there declared that Queen Helen had left for Belgrade on invitation of the queen of Yugoslavia, who learned that Helen needed rest after her ordeal in nursing Crown Prince Michael through his illness.

Helen, it was said, would accompany the Yugoslavian royal family to their summer residence at Bled for two weeks, going on later to France.

Members of Queen Helen's entourage, however, said that Queen Helen had been "invited" to leave by King Carol's master of ceremonies at 10 o'clock at night and that she had to leave by midnight.

From the same sources came the story that the invitation resulted from the meeting of King Carol and King Alexander last Monday, when, it was said, Carol asked his brother-in-law to endeavor to induce Queen Helen to agree to reside abroad on the condition that she be permitted to visit Rumania every summer and spend several months in the mountains with Crown Prince Michael.

A similar proposal, it was said, was also made to Helen lately by her brother, former King George, of Greece. George's eagerness to see his sister reside abroad, it was reported, has grown out of a conviction that she and Carol cannot be reconciled.

BUREAU TO ENFORCE POLL LAWS ADVOCATED

WASHINGTON, May 7.—(P)—Creation of a permanent agency for enforcement of the federal election laws relating to expenditures was advocated before the senate campaign funds committee today by Professor Charles E. Merriam, of Chicago University.

"The law is too lax," Professor Merriam told the committee, "and it is not really enforced. Some agency should be set up to govern election operations."

He preferred that congress establish a regular campaign funds investigating committee rather than a separate elections commission. He believed the congressional committee would inspire greater public interest and attention.

AID TO MEMORIAL PLEGGED BY T.P.A.

Georgia Group Promises Active Support to Stone Mountain Project.

SAVANNAH, Ga., May 7.—The active support and assistance of 5,000 traveling men and business executives of the state of Georgia was pledged to the aid of the Confederate memorial on Stone Mountain today, when the Georgia division of the Travelers' Protective Association of America by a unanimous vote, offered its aid to the city of Atlanta and those in charge of the memorial.

William Woodruff, of Atlanta, state attorney for the Georgia division, introduced the resolution, and pushing it through the association, and immediately without reference to resolution committees. The association voted its commendation to J. L. McCord, of Atlanta, who is president of the Atlanta post of the order, for his work on committees which are endeavoring to settle differences which have arisen concerning the memorial.

The resolution, as adopted by the convention, is as follows:

"Whereas it has come to the attention of the present convention that his honor, the mayor of Atlanta, James L. Key, has undertaken the revival of the great Stone Mountain memorial and the consummation of this stupendous undertaking as an honor and memorial to the soldiers and sailors of the Confederacy, said consummation to be under the direction of the city of Atlanta, as custodian of the property forever for the public, in honor of the valor of the soldiers of the south; and

"Whereas, considerable progress has been made toward the consummation of that great work; and

"Whereas, J. L. McCord, president of Post R, is chairman of a committee from the Atlanta Chamber of Commerce and has worked on this memorial for the past 15 months to settle all differences that have heretofore defeated progress on the memorial, and is still at work on this project;

"Therefore, be it resolved, that we congratulate his honor, Mayor James L. Key, on his splendid efforts toward revival and completion of a memorial so dear to the heart of the South;

"And be it further resolved, that we extend to J. L. McCord our heartiest congratulations for his work in an endeavor to realize for the south and the nation an everlasting remembrance of the men in gray;

"And be it further resolved, that we here and now pledge our united effort to stand behind Mr. McCord and Mayor Key and offer every possible aid that lies within our power so that such a noble undertaking may yet rise to stand through all the ages as a heritage for future generations, and as an everlasting remembrance to those great leaders and soldiers, which they so greatly deserve."

REDISCOUNT RATE CUT BY NEW YORK RESERVE

NEW YORK, May 7.—(P)—In what Wall Street interpreted as an effort to stimulate the bond market as part of a program to aid business recovery, the Federal Reserve Bank of New York reduced its rediscount rate from 2 to 1 1/2 per cent today.

Although the federal reserve system has no dealings with most businessmen or the general public, such action is considered of fundamental importance to the business world. The rediscount rate is the charge made by the federal reserve bank on money which it lends to its member banks, secured by loans which the members have in turn granted to their customers.

The new 1 1/2 per cent rate is the lowest in the history of the federal reserve system. So far as could be learned today it is the lowest rate ever charged by any central bank in the world. A careful checking of the records of the Bank of England back to 1790 failed to disclose so low a charge. The reduction is the eighth to be made since the 6 per cent rate was adopted on August 9, 1929, previous to the stock market crash. The 2 per cent rate was established on December 24, 1930.

Official comment on the reduction was not obtainable, but the prevailing view among bankers attributed the action to an attempt to stimulate the bond market. One of the troublesome features of present business conditions is the excessive supply of short term money or credit. The action of the Federal Reserve Bank of New York in reducing its buying yield rates for bankers' acceptances three times within two weeks, which are the equivalent of increases in price, thus making them less attractive for short term investment, is regarded as an attempt to discourage further investments in such securities, and divert them into bonds.

REDISCOUNT RATE CUT BY RESERVE AT DALLAS

WASHINGTON, May 7.—(P)—The federal reserve board announced today the Federal Reserve Bank of Dallas had reduced its rediscount rate from 3 1/2 to 3 per cent, effective tomorrow.

TWO GIVEN CHAIR FOR FLORIDA KILLING

TAMPA, Fla., May 7.—(P)—Victor Palmer and Norman Heidt were sentenced today to death in the electric chair for the murder last winter of Joe B. Johnson, wealthy businessman.

The plea of the two, 26-year-old slayers that they were innocent, was refused at a hearing in circuit court by Judge F. M. Robles. The defendants immediately were called before him to hear their sentences read.

Both stood silent as the decision of the court was announced. They will appeal to the state supreme court for retrial, their attorneys said.

Chill Morning, Warmer Day, Friday Outlook

A 10-degree drop in temperature this morning will make early risers shiver and wish that the old furnace was still going, but the discomfort will not be for long, as fair skies will send the thermometer up into the 70s during the day, C. F. von Herrmann, United States meteorologist, said Thursday.

The minimum this morning probably will be 49 degrees, as compared with a reading of 59 degrees Thursday morning, the weather man said.

"The rain," said Mr. von Herrmann, "is over—at least for a day or two." This assertion followed a rather severe shower of Thursday morning, which, the weather man said, was the parting gesture of a storm that passed over Atlanta toward the west. Precipitation Wednesday night measured .36 of an inch and during the forenoon Thursday the weather bureau recorded .25 of an inch more. This amount of rain is not particularly heavy for Atlanta, although it is an appreciable amount in view of the dryness of the year to date, the weather man said. The excess for May to date is well over an inch, he added.

The weather will be better today with fair skies and a warming condition after the morning chill, and, best of all, Mr. von Herrmann said gleefully, "there is no more rain in sight at present."

NORWEGIAN CABINET, UNDER FIRE, RESIGNS

OSLO, Norway, May 7.—(P)—The Norwegian government resigned today after the oddest (parliament) approved by a vote of 57 to 55 a resolution deploring the granting of the so-called Lilleberg concession.

The concession, a complicated commercial transaction, was granted a year ago by the government. It aroused strong feeling in Norway.

Under its terms, the De No Fa Company, which owns the northern factories of Fredrikstad, and half of the capital of which is held by the British Unilever-Brunel Company, was permitted to acquire half of the capital of the Lilleberg Company, a soap manufacturing concern.

Premier Morwinkkel said the resignation of the government was not voluntary.

"We were forced to resign," he said. "I feel sorry. I believe this will mark the end of my political life."

ENGLAND IS HOPEFUL OF ARMS LIMIT PACT

Will Continue Negotiations at Nations' Meeting in Geneva.

LONDON, May 7.—(P)—The British government refuses to take the view that all is lost in regard to the Anglo-Franco-Italian naval agreement although it is looking to Geneva rather than to London to provide a final settlement.

A meeting of naval experts of the three countries was held at the foreign office today and the situation was considered as it stands following receipt of Italian and British replies to the French memorandum of April 20.

After the conference a communique was issued saying that the correspondence exchanged had brought out an "earnest desire" of the three governments concerned to overcome the present difficulties. With this aim, it was stated, oral exchanges of views will continue.

The communique pointed out, however, that French and Italian experts were due at Geneva next Monday and that foreign ministers of the three countries also would be in the same city next week.

An opportunity thus will be provided for continuing discussions at Geneva with the added advantage of having Arthur Henderson, Aristide Briand and Dino Grandi, foreign ministers for England, France and Italy, respectively, in personal contact.

GOV. ROOSEVELT ON WAY TO PARIS

NEW YORK, May 7.—(P)—Governor Roosevelt was on the way to Europe today to visit his mother who is recovering from influenza in Paris. He sailed on the Aquitania with the cares of state behind him, and a promise that he would do nothing more strenuous than to read several documents and a half dozen books, ranging from a prison report in four volumes to General Pershing's Memoirs.

The governor's prior to his departure had named the five members to the St. Lawrence power authority and said the names of three of the 16 members of the committee to study the administration of criminal justice would be made public at Albany today.

The five new members of the water power authority are Frank D. Walsh, of New York; Professor James C. Bonbright, of Columbia University; Fred Freestone, Interlaken; Morris L. Cooke, power valuation expert of Philadelphia, and Delos Cosgrove, Watertown.

The governor indicated that his mother might return with him to New York about May 27, if permitted by her physicians.

SON GIVEN CONTROL OF EWING'S ESTATE

Publisher's Entire Holdings Are Left in Trust for Ten Years.

NEW ORLEANS, May 7.—(AP)—The will of the late Colonel Robert Ewing, probated today in the civil district court, left the entire estate in trust for 10 years and appointed his son, John D. Ewing as the sole trustee.

"I know by experience that the policy of a newspaper must be controlled by one man and that power I here lodge in my son, John D. Ewing," the will said. It directed that the four newspapers, the New Orleans States, the Shreveport (La.) Times, the Monroe (La.) News-Star and the Monroe Morning World be operated by the trustee for the full term of the trust. After five years, the heirs were given the privilege by unanimous action to dispose of the New Orleans States.

The will appointed his two sons, James L. Ewing and John D. Ewing, and his widow, Grace Nolan Ewing, joint testamentary executors and directed them to put the trust into immediate operation.

The estate was divided into seven parts, equal parts going to his widow and his six children, James L. Ewing, John D. Ewing, Toulmin D. Robert, Wilson and Esther Ewing Brown. In addition, his daughter, Mrs. Brown, was given a summer home at Pass Christian, Miss., and the widow was bequeathed the home and furnishings on St. Charles avenue in New Orleans and the use of a summer home at Pass Christian.

Special legacies were made to employees, $5,000 to J. Walker Ross, managing editor of the New Orleans States; $10,000 to J. C. Ahy, columnist of the States; and $750 to James Fisher, business manager of the States.

TREASURY ISSUE OVERSUBSCRIBED

WASHINGTON, May 7.—(AP)—The $500,000,000 issue of treasury bills to be dated May 11 today was heavily oversubscribed.

Secretary Mellon announced that the total amount applied for was $291,690,800, but that the amount accepted was $50,000,000. Except for one bid for $30,000 at the rate of about three-fourths of one percent, the highest bid made was 90.715, equivalent to an interest rate of about one and one-eighth per cent on an annual basis.

The average price of the bills to be issued is 90.701, while the average rate on a bank discount basis is about 1.18 per cent.

DR. DE LOS L. HILL PASSES THURSDAY

Nationally Prominent Dentist Succumbs at Home Here.

Dr. DeLos Lemuel Hill, 57, nationally prominent dentist, died Thursday morning at his home, 91 Eleventh street, N. E., following an illness of three weeks complicated by heart trouble. Funeral services will be held at 11 Saturday morning from Spring Hill chapel, the Rev. Richard Flinn, pastor of the North Avenue Presbyterian church, and the Rev. Homer Thompson, pastor of Trinity Methodist church, will officiate. Interment will be in Oakland cemetery.

Although expected for several days because of his sinking condition, death of Dr. Hill came as a profound shock to his large circle of friends. He was known far and wide for his unselfish work in behalf of dentistry, and he was showered with many honors by fraternal and other organizations. Within the last month, he was elected a trustee of the Atlanta-Southern

DR. DELOS L. HILL.

Dental College, where he filled the duties of rector, jurisprudence, ethics and economics for many years.

Dr. Hill was elected supreme grand master of the national Psi Omega Dental fraternity in 1930, obtaining the highest honor of the fraternity in the United States. He was supreme counselor of the fraternity from 1918 to 1920, and gave freely of his time and activities to the local chapter, Gamma Tau.

One of the foremost authorities in the country on economics of dental practice, Dr. Hill had time to devote to the youth who needed aid, and he hoped many boys obtain training in dental school through the Rotary educational foundation. He was one of the organizers of the Dental Interfraternity Council, and was a member of the Professional Interfraternity Council. He also was secretary-treasurer of the National Association of Dental Faculties from 1918 to 1923.

In addition to Mrs. Hill, Dr. Hill is survived by three sons, Mrs. James A. Gordon, of Winona Lake, Ind.; Mrs. C. J. Kiehl, of Atlanta, and Mrs. James Bullock, of Dallas, Ga. His son, DeLos, Jr., died at the age of 11 years.

A native Atlantan, Dr. Hill was born May 14, 1874, the son of DeLos Lemuel and Kora Caldwell Hill. He received his early education at Boys' High school and engaged in the profession of accounting for several years before entering upon the study of dentistry. In 1903 he was graduated from the Atlanta Dental College as valedictorian of his class, having received the highest grade in the institution and defrayed his own expenses while studying there.

After his graduation he was elected to the faculty of the college and since that time took an active part in the development of dental education. At the time of his death he was professor of jurisprudence, ethics and economics at the college.

Always a leader in fraternal and dental organizations, he was a charter member and one of the organizers of the first chapter of the Psi Omega fraternity in Georgia and had also helped to organize chapters in other states. In 1914 he was elected to the supreme council of the fraternity and at the time of his death, was its supreme grand master.

Salvation Army Flag To Fly Over City Hall

For four days during the annual congress of the Salvation Army to be held here beginning Saturday, the official flag of the religious organization will fly from the staff on city hall, by special permission of Mayor James L. Key, according to an announcement issued Thursday.

Adjutant Vincent Cunningham, editor of the War Cry, official publication of the Salvation Army, is in Washington, D. C., at the head of a group of six officers who will confer with General and Mrs. Edward J. Higgins, of London, England, international commanders of the Army, regarding final arrangements for the congress.

Approximately 900 officers and delegates from the 15 southern states include in the territory are expected to attend the congress, which will be featured by two parades and a civic and state reception for General Higgins. Divisions will be quartered at a number of local hotels, it was announced.

Schools, an honor conferred upon him at Memphis, on March 24, last, had served as secretary and treasurer of that organization for a number of years, having been elected to these offices when the association was first formed. He was also a member of the National Board of Dental Examiners.

With Dr. W. M. Zirkle and Dr. M. D. Huff, Dr. Hill organized the Atlanta Society of Dental Surgeons, of which the Fifth District Dental Society was an outgrowth, afterward serving the organization as its president. He was president of the Georgia State Dental Society in 1913, later becoming a member of its executive council.

Dr. Hill was a fellow of the American College of Dentists, a member of the International Federation of Dentists, and of the Omicron Kappa Upsilon, honor fraternity. He was a Methodist, a past master of Piedmont Lodge No. 447, F. & A. M.; a member of the Shrine, the Rotary Club, Atlanta Chamber of Commerce, the Druid Hills Golf Club and the Capital City Club.

Dr. Hill was married in 1899 to Miss Gussie Parkhurst.

AIRPORT DEVELOPMENT MAKES RAPID STRIDES

Aviation has placed Atlanta in a class with New York and Chicago, it was pointed out by Milt Saul, of the publicity department, southern division, American Airways, Inc., in an address before the Ad Club Thursday at the Ansley hotel.

Mr. Saul brought out the fact that Atlanta's development as an aviation center had come in a period of three years, and he predicted that greater progress would be made during the next year than all that in the past combined.

Belief was expressed by Mr. Saul that passenger service would be inaugurated on the New Orleans line in the next 30 days and that night passenger service would soon be instituted on the New York route.

In the near future, Mr. Saul said that it would be possible to go from New York to Los Angeles on regular passenger planes in 26 hours. This service would come through Atlanta and contemplate night flying between El Paso and Los Angeles.

The growth and development of Atlanta as an air center was characterized by Mr. Saul as one of the most remarkable and constructive movements that had ever taken place in the south.

Sixth U.S. Cavalry Camps Saturday In Piedmont Park

With streamers symbolic of victories in many battles floating from its regimental standard, the historic 70-year-old Sixth United States Cavalry, in which General Pershing saw service for the first time after his graduation from West Point, will encamp here Saturday in Piedmont park, where it will remain until after the Atlanta Horse Show. The cavalry is returning from maneuvers at Fort Benning to its permanent station at Fort Oglethorpe.

Four days later, on May 13, the 29th Infantry regiment—with 52 officers and 1,200 enlisted men—will arrive at Fort McPherson under the command of Colonel Duncan K. Major, Jr., former chief of staff of the fourth corps area. The regiment is widely known as the only infantry organization in the country with war strength units.

The Sixth cavalry is commanded by Colonel Evan H. Humphrey and is made up of 34 officers and 550 enlisted men. It served in the War Between the States, the Indian Wars, the Spanish-American War, the Philippine insurrection, the Boxer rebellion, and was with Pershing on his punitive expedition into Mexico. During the World War it was broken up into detachments for military police duty overseas. At present its personnel is composed largely of men from the southern states.

WEATHERMAN SEES SECOND DRY YEAR

WASHINGTON, May 7.—(AP)—The existence of drought conditions closely paralleling those of last spring were described today by J. B. Kinger, weather bureau meteorologist.

In a radio speech over the National Broadcasting Company he said that heavy rains were needed to avert a repetition of the 1930 drought.

"Rather well distributed light to moderate rains so far this spring," he said, "have furnished sufficient moisture for the current needs of crops over most farming areas. At the same time, the tendency still tends, rather generally, to below normal over wide sections, but little surplus of moisture."

"There is a recognized tendency for one dry year to follow another, but this is not definite enough to make a forecast. About all that can be said at the present is that conditions are not materially different from this time a year ago, and that generous rains will be needed during the summer season because of the large accumulated deficiencies of the past year."

"At the present time rain is badly needed in the northwest from the lake region westward to the Rocky Mountains."

Autoist Bound Over For Using Wrong Tag

A campaign by state officers against illegal use of automobile license tags Thursday resulted in G. L. McClure, of a Lawton street address, being bound over by Recorder A. W. Callaway to criminal court of Atlanta under $300 bond.

Officers of DeKalb county said that McClure was arrested in a car bearing tags issued for another car. The tags on the car in which McClure was found had been issued as duplicates to another man who had reported that he lost tags, which were found on a whisky car caught by DeKalb officers, it was said.

WICKERSHAM ASKS NEW CRIME LAWS

Changes in Code Also Urged by Chief Justice Hughes.

WASHINGTON, May 7.—(AP)—Two leaders of the bar today advocated clarification of criminal law and better collection of crime statistics before the American Law Institute.

George W. Wickersham, chairman of the law enforcement commission, urged the institute to devote itself to a restatement of substantive criminal law, adding the time was "peculiarly opportune" because of the approaching end of the work of his commission.

Chief Justice Hughes suggested a central organization in the justice department to supervise the collection of criminal statistics.

"Pending such an organization," he said, "some improvement may be possible, but I do not think it will amount to much."

Institute members, gathered for their ninth annual meeting, heard reports on work during the past year by Hubert F. Goodrich, dean of the University of Pennsylvania law school, and William Draper Lewis, institute director, before beginning technical discussions.

Wickersham who also is president of the institute, said the two-year life of his commission was too short for an adequate investigation into the "effect of law, or lack of law."

"Indeed," he said, "some such body as this institute must undertake the necessary constructive follow-up work, if the labors of the national commission are to fructify into the most useful results."

He added that no thoughtful person who is in touch with the times "can fail to note the existence of a widespread lack of respect for law."

Chief Justice Hughes said he hoped the influence of the annual conference of the institute would be developed and added he thought congress should pass legislation giving the conference authority to recommend to it statutory changes in federal courts relating to jurisdiction, practice and evidence.

Most of the three-day session of the institute will be devoted to reviving and discussing the results of its nine-year-old task of restating, or clarifying and simplifying existing common law decisions.

STATE RESTS CASE AGAINST BANKERS

ASHEVILLE, N. C., May 7.—(AP)—The first of a series of criminal trials growing out of the failure of the Central Bank & Trust Company reached its final stages here this afternoon when the state rested and character witnesses were introduced by the defense.

Introduction of the character witnesses came late in today's session, after counsel for Wallace B. Davis, president; C. N. Brown and Dr. J. A. Sinclair, directors of the defunct bank, charged with making false report to the state corporation commission, had argued for an hour and a half seeking non-suits.

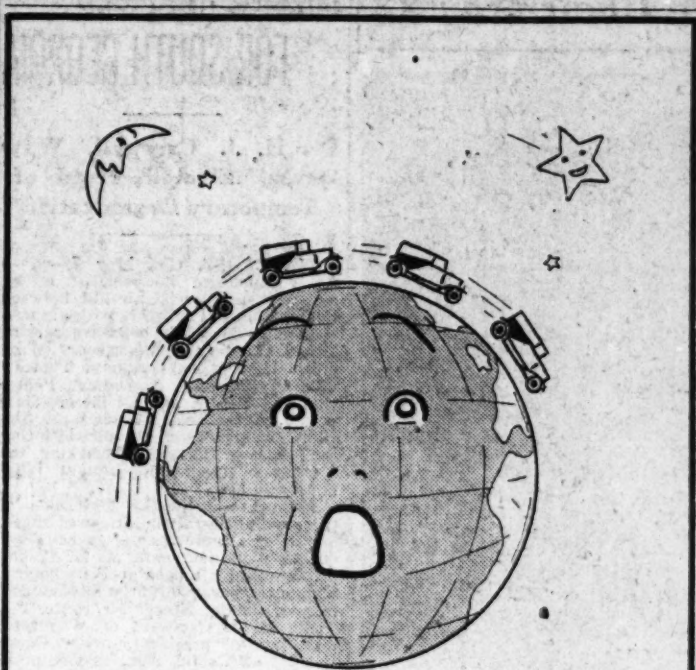

Almost before counsel for Davis could gain their feet they were interrupted by Judge M. V. Barnhill.

"I suppose you are about to seek a non-suit. The evidence so far makes it necessary that it be decided by the jury. I note your objection to this decision, overrule it and grant an exception," he said, without allowing counsel time to say anything.

ATLANTA AT MACON WILL OPEN TODAY

yle Show and Cotton Ball
To Feature Two-Day Entertainment.

MACON, Ga., May 7.—(P)—Macon is prepared Thursday night for a peep of thousands of visitors to the opening Friday of the cotton festival of middle Georgia and for their entertainment during the entire program of two days, Friday and Saturday, and a style show and cotton ball yale show at the auditorium.

Extensive exhibits of manufactured articles will be opened at 11 o'clock tomorrow morning at the auditorium. Heralded with bands of music and honorary escort of city policemen, officials and chairmen of the festival, the parade of floats telling the story of uses for cotton will start from the city hall at 3:30 o'clock Friday afternoon.

Out-of-town floats, of which a large number are expected, will be given as first place in the parade. Allocation of position in the line of march will be made by Chief Ben T. Watson, who will assign the first place to the representative who makes first application and so on in order until all are placed.

The doors of the auditorium will be thrown open at 4:30 o'clock Friday afternoon for the formal opening exercises which will be presided over by C. E. Allen, general chairman of the festival. He will present Mayor J. Glen Toole for an address of welcome.

Speakers on this occasion will be Governor L. G. Hardman, Governor-elect Richard B. Russell, Jr., Senators W. J. Harris and Walter P. George and Congressman Sam Rutherford.

Miss Nannette Ruff, queen of the festival, and Robert M. Gamble, king, with their courts will ride in the parade and will be presented at the auditorium in the afternoon and again at night.

Crowning the king and queen will be a feature of the Saturday night program and will be held following the cotton fashion show just before the grand march and the cotton ball yale show. The highlight of Friday's program will be the presentation, at 8 p. m., of the Cotton Polles under the auspices of the Pilot Club. A group of 50 dancers have been practicing for several weeks perfecting the story of the play. Vivid pictures of various girls from many lands will be presented in this revue.

NYE HEADQUARTERS MOVED TO MACON

ALBANY, Ga., May 7.—(P)—The headquarters of the Nye Odorous Incinerator Company Thursday were moved from here to Macon where the company was originally organized.

The headquarters were established here more than a year ago by Dermot Shewell, through a series of court decisions, A. C. Felton, Jr., Macon, recently regained control of the corporation and transferred office and records back to Macon.

Shewell said today that a bill for receivership for the company was still pending in Delaware courts and that it had been set for hearing May 21. He said employees who served the organization under his management were no longer connected with it.

AUTO CRASH VICTIM BURIED IN AMERICUS

AMERICUS, Ga., May 7.—Funeral services were held here Thursday for C. N. Calloway, who died of injuries received in an automobile crash in Muscogee county Wednesday. The Rev. Emmett Daniel, of Shiloh, conducted the services and interment was in the church cemetery, near here. Mr. Calloway was a passenger in a car driven by C. F. Fuller en route from Americus to LaGrange when the crash occurred. Fuller was arrested and is held in Muscogee county jail, charged with murder.

FOR SOUTH GEORGIA

Dr. H. J. Carswell, Waycross, Elected Head of Temporary Organization

WAYCROSS, Ga., May 7.—(P)—An enthusiastic endorsement of an east-west commercial air line between Savannah and Pensacola with air mail service as an early objective serving Savannah, Jessup, Blackshear, Waycross, Homerville, Quitman, Thomasville, Tallahassee, Marianna, Pensacola and Mobile, and all intermediate points in Georgia, Florida and Alabama, was given at an air mail conference here Thursday, marking the opening of the second annual Waycross air meet.

Following a lengthy discussion of the possibilities of the proposed route, and after a tentative survey had been outlined by Lieutenant M. M. Clokey of the naval air base at Pensacola, a temporary organization was perfected to sponsor the lateral air route.

Dr. H. J. Carswell, of Waycross, was named president, with Oscar Barney, of Mobile, Ala., as vice president. The secretary will be named by the president.

Directors were named as follows: P. W. Robertson, of Valdosta; G. M. Harrington, of Jessup; John V. Burton, of Marianna, Fla.; Joe Baker, of Mobile; Fred Marsh, of Pensacola, Fla.; W. L. Stinson, of Pensacola Springs, Fla.; C. C. Williams, of Quincy, Fla.; Mattie Martin, of Crestview, Fla.; Dr. J. S. Kennedy, of Milton, Fla.; Dr. H. G. Huey, of Homerville, La.; E. Sewell, of Blackshear; George W. Popwell, of Waycross. Directors also will be named from Savannah, Quitman and Thomasville.

It was outlined by Lieutenant Clokey, who has been assigned by the commandant of the naval air station at Pensacola to to in every possible the development of the Savannah-Mobile route, that the principal cities located on this proposed route show a resident population of approximately 225,000. The air distance from Savannah to Mobile is approximately 400 miles, and the time by air would be fixed at about four hours and 30 minutes including all stops along the route, the tentative schedule revealed. This would mean the time between the two cities would be cut from 18 hours, the present train time to four hours and a half.

Oscar Barney, manager of the Mobile airport, discussed the air mail possibilities of the route, referring to the need for such route as a means of speeding mail between the western United States and the South American, Cuba and the Bahamas.

3-Month Divorce Law Proposed for Georgia. MACON, Ga., May 7.—(P)—Revision of the divorce laws of Georgia, eliminating the jury hearing, and requiring only three months' residence in the state, will be proposed in legislation to be introduced in the next general assembly by L. T. (Pat) Gillon, member of the Macon county delegation, he stated today.

The present law requires 12 months' residence in the state, and verdict by two juries, sitting at different terms of the court. Under the proposed law, the judge will be empowered to sign a decree after a thorough investigation of the case.

It now takes 18 months to obtain a divorce here, including the residence requirement. Under the Gillon proposal the time will be cut to approximately four months.

"This is not an attempt to put the state in the divorce business, but an attempt to relieve our courts of some of the long drawn out, foolish delays which now exist," Mr. Gillon said.

Cups To Be Awarded High School Publications

To stimulate interest in high school journalism and to improve the standards of the high school press, these five silver loving cups, given by the Athens Banner-Herald, will be awarded to outstanding publications at the fourth annual convention of the Georgia Scholastic Press Association at the Henry W. Grady School of Journalism, University of Georgia, Friday. First prizes will go to the school newspapers, grouped according to the size of the school, to magazines and to school pages of local papers.

CASE-FOWLER COMPANY IN RECEIVER'S HANDS

MACON, Ga., May 7.—(P)—The Case-Fowler Lumber Company, one of the largest hardwood plants in the southeast, whose appraised assets approximated $2,000,000 in December, 1929, tonight was in the hands of a receiver, and the operation of its plants discontinued.

Judge Malcolm D. Jones, of the Macon circuit, appointed Pope E. Brock, Macon attorney, receiver, and authorized him to take over the properties and dispose of them in such manner as he deems proper.

The action will release several hundred workers in three counties—Bibb, Wayne and Emanuel.

Mr. Brock was appointed on petition of the First National bank of Atlanta, as trustee, because of the lumber corporation's default in the payment of $2,500 to a sinking fund as required in a trust deed executed in April, 1926, following the issuance of $500,000 worth of first mortgage sinking fund bonds, it was stated.

The defaulting corporation admitted its inability to meet the requirement and did not contest the appointment of receiver. Mr. Brock announced the discontinuance of operations.

In addition to its default in the sinking fund payment due March 1, Mr. Brock was appointed on petition charges a failure to pay interest on bonds April 1. The lumber company, of which Harry Fowler is president, testified that it was unable to meet that requirement.

The action closes the Macon plant of the lumber company, a plant in Wayne county near Doctortown, and a yard near Swainsboro, it was said. The worth of the properties at the present time, including the real estate, machinery, equipment and inventory, was estimated today at little more than $500,000.

There are 12,000,000 feet of lumber on the three yards of the company, it was said. Hundreds of acres of land in Bibb, Wayne and Emanuel counties are involved.

The body of the man was brought to Brunswick and Thursday night sent to Middlefield for interment. Mrs. Elliott and her son accompanied the body.

JUDGE UNDERWOOD DISQUALIFIES HIMSELF

GAINESVILLE, Ga., May 7.—Judge E. Marvin Underwood, Thursday disqualified himself in the trial here of Roy Jones, charged with auto theft. Jones is one of 20 youths recently indicted by a federal grand jury in Atlanta.

Judge Underwood disqualified himself on the grounds that he formerly represented the Auto Theft Investigation Bureau, which investigated Jones' case.

Pile Sufferers

Can You Answer These Questions?
Do you know why external remedies do not give quick and permanent relief?
Why cutting does not remove the cause?

Do you know the cause of Piles is internal?
That there is congestion of blood in the lower bowel—the veins flabby, the parts almost dead?

Do you know that there is a harmless internal remedy for itching, bleeding or protruding piles discovered by Dr. Leonhardt and known as HEM-ROID that is guaranteed?

HEM-ROID banishes piles by removing the cause. It stimulates the circulation in the lower bowel—drives out the thick impure blood, heals and restores the affected parts. This remedy has an almost unbelievable record for sure, safe and lasting relief to thousands of pile sufferers.

Don't waste time on external remedies or think of an operation until you have tried a bottle of HEM-ROID tablets. Jacobs' Drug Stores guarantee money back if they do not and Piles in any form.—(adv.)

NAVAL STORES HEADS SEEK LABORATORY SITE

$40,000 Project To Aid Development of Field Work in Southeast.

SAVANNAH, May 7.—(P)—A conference was held here Thursday by representatives of the government and local naval stores men relative to the proposal of the government to place a $40,000 laboratory in the southeast for development of field work in the industry to promote the efficiency of naval stores operations.

Congress made an appropriation at its last session for building the laboratory. The main matter to be decided now is its location. A number of sites have been offered and are being studied, this latter being the object of the government's experts visit here.

Among those who attended were: Dr. W. W. Skinner, assistant chief of the chemical and technological research, bureau of chemistry and soils; Dr. F. P. Velth, in charge of naval stores investigations of this bureau; V. L. Harper, assistant silviculturist of the forest service, formerly at the forestry experimental station at Starke, Fla., but now at Washington; Carl F. Speth, of Jacksonville, secretary-manager of the Pine Institute of America, and George P. Schingler, naval stores technologist of the department of agriculture.

SLAYING ADMITTED BY BUTLER MERCHANT

BUTLER, Ga., May 7.—(P)—Luther McChargue, 40, member of the county board of education and prominent Taylor county citizen, surrendered to R. P. McGuffin, sheriff of Taylor county, Thursday after admitting he shot to death Elmer Kent, 35, well known farmer and merchant. McChargue claims self-defense. He was the first to advise the sheriff of the shooting and requested that the officer come for him.

The shooting occurred in the store of McChargue at Norwich, a small town on the Atlanta, Birmingham & Coast railroad in the western part of the county, and was the result of a dispute over a small store account. It is claimed by Mr. McChargue that there were no witnesses to the killing. Both men were married and have large and prominent family connections.

Preliminary trial for McChargue will probably be held in Butler Friday morning.

ROUTE 13 PAVING PROSPECTS BRIGHT

Cook Expects Completion of Atlanta-Gainesville-Toccoa Highway by Winter.

Prospects are bright for completing the paving on Route 13, Atlanta-Gainesville-Toccoa highway, before next winter, Charles A. Cook, secretary of the Atlanta Motor Club, has announced after a conference with Captain J. W. Barnett, chairman of the state highway board.

Only a hitch between the city of Toccoa and the county commissioners of Stephens, it is reported, as to the paving of a stretch from the edge of the city into the city, which the city wants the county to demand of the state highway board, stands between the beginning of grading.

In connection with the conference with Captain Barnett, Mr. Cook issued the following statement: "All that stands in the way of the completion of the paving on this very

$4,000 Police Captain Puts $227,000 in Bank

CHICAGO, May 7.—(AP)—Captain John Ptaszek, of the Lawndale police station, has deposited $227,000 in his bank accounts in the last five years, the special grand jury found today in its search of bank records.

The jurors have systematically examined the accounts of police captains for several weeks in their inquiry into alleged graft and corruption.

Captain Ptaszek deposited $15,000 since January, and has also made heavy withdrawals, the records showed. Chicago police captains draw $4,000 a year salary.

The jury expected to complete today its examination of records brought in from 227 banks.

Important highway is the securing of a right-of-way through the city of Toccoa by the Stephens county commissioners and the county sharing one-fourth of the cost of grading this right-of-way.

"I conferred with Captain J. W. Barnett, chairman of the state highway board, I called upon him to acquaint him with the insistent demand that the eight miles from Toccoa to the South Carolina line be paved before next winter and I was most pleased to learn from Captain Barnett that the highway board is ready to let the contract for this project just as soon as the Stephens county authorities get the right-of-way through Toccoa and arrange to do their part of the grading on the short stretch through that city."

It was also pleased to learn from Captain Barnett that the county commissioners of Stephens county have agreed to do both these things and now it is to be hoped that they will find it possible to do them without any further loss of time so that the contract for the last stretch of paving can be included in the June letting.

"The completion of this paving this summer will mean that there will be a paved highway from Miami through Atlanta to a point 30 miles north of Quebec, Canada. South Carolina is now rushing work on the paving of its last stretch on this highway, the nine miles from Westminster to the Georgia line."

"Route 13 is the highway which practically parallels the Southern railway from Atlanta to Washington and which provides the most direct route to Greenville, Spartanburg, Charlotte, Greensboro, Richmond, Washington, Baltimore, Philadelphia, New York, Boston and other eastern points. No route, with the possible exception of the route to the west through Chattanooga, has more traffic."

WAS SPY IN MEXICO, GEN. BUTLER REVEALS

PHILADELPHIA, May 7.—(AP)—Major General Smedley D. Butler served in 1914 in Mexico as a spy, obtaining information for President Wilson at a time when relations with the Mexican government headed by Victoriano Huerta were strained.

The general posed as a bibliophile, an eccentric entomologist, a capitalist, a secret service operative, an author and an accountant.

While intoxicated Huerta signed an order giving the marine officer power to enter every army barracks in Mexico City. The mission won Butler his first Congressional Medal of Honor.

General Butler told the story last night in addressing the annual dinner of the Unity Stores Association.

Posing as a detective looking for a murderer from Ohio who was believed to have joined the Mexican army, Butler said he gained the confidence of one of Huerta's aides. This aide finally obtained for him an audience with President Huerta.

"Huerta was lying in his bed at Chapultepec palace, drunk," Butler declared. "I actually sat on the edge of his bed, and I prepared an order which he signed giving me free access to every one of the 23 or 24 garisons in the city and to examine every man at close range, examine the equipment and count the guns."

"This yarn hasn't hitherto been published, so I don't know whether the Mexican ambassador to the United States will take a shot at me or not. I suppose before telling it I really ought to jump down to Mexico City and see if the palace really is there."

The general referred to the recent "Haitian incident" in which the Haitian minister to the United States said he did not know of the existence of Fort Riviere, a Haitian bandit stronghold, for whose capture Butler and two of his men received Congressional Medals of Honor.

General Butler said his secret mission in Mexico was ordered by President Woodrow Wilson and that it was necessary because the exact military strength which Huerta could put in the field, together with the defenses of the city, was unknown to American military commanders. He said war with Mexico was imminent because of the "Vera Cruz incident" and that the American fleet lay in Vera Cruz harbor.

STIMSON WILL IGNORE REMARKS OF GENERAL

WASHINGTON, May 7.—(AP)—The state department will ignore references by Major General Smedley D. Butler, of the marine corps, in a speech in Philadelphia last night to the present Nicaraguan policy and former President Huerta of Mexico.

Department officials said today that the only basis upon which they could take up the references to Huerta would be on a protest from the Mexican government. Since the references were mainly in the nature of a personal character such a protest was considered unlikely.

So far as the general's indirect criticism of the Nicaraguan policy was concerned, department officials maintained that all citizens were entitled to their individual opinions of such policies.

THOUSAND WATCH RESCUE OF CHILD

GENEVA, Neb., May 7.—(AP)—While more than 1,000 persons watched, Carroll Brower, 18-month-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Brower, was rescued last night by volunteer firemen from an abandoned well into which she had fallen. One leg was slightly bruised in her fall, but otherwise she apparently suffered no ill effects.

Working in shifts the firemen dug a shaft alongside the well, two feet distant. They went down 25 feet and then tunneled to the bottom part of the well.

The girl's father had driven over the old well with a motor truck, causing the opening. The hole was not large enough to admit the body of an adult. First workers thought of letting down a rope, but they thought of letting down a boy, but the boys that could get through the hole were not big enough to do the job.

An occasional cry from the little girl urged the workers on as they went about their task.

Neighbor women provided hot coffee and food for the workers.

THREE LIVES LOST AS TUGBOAT SINKS

Craft Goes Down After Collision With Steamer New York.

NEW YORK, May 7.—(AP)—Cut in two by the steel prow of the steamer New York, the tugboat Trimont, of Boston, was sunk early today off Race Rock, 10 miles southeast of New London, with a loss of three lives.

Six men were picked up in lifeboats of the Eastern Steamship liner, which was en route from Boston to New York with 300 passengers when the collision occurred in fog and heavy rain. The liner was undamaged.

The dead: Peter Webb, Everett, Mass., cook; Sam Christenson, Brooklyn, N. Y., deckhand, and Edward Anderson, Everett, welder. They were all members of the Trimont crew, bound from Bridgeport to Providence.

The survivors were brought to New York by the steamship after an hour's search for the missing.

Captain W. N. Corning, of the liner, who was in the pilot house, said he had been proceeding slowly and had blown a whistle for a half hour continuously. A moment before the collision the lookout saw the lights of the tugboat too late to avoid the crash.

Captain Cecil Bethel, of the tugboat, said he had blown his whistle frequently and had heard the sound of the steamship's whistle but was unable to determine the direction before the steel prow cut the wooden craft in two and sank it within a few minutes.

After the search the liner proceeded to New York. Coast guard patrol boat 124, from New London, continued the search and was joined by two others today.

BUSINESS LEADERS HEAR SIAMESE KING

NEW YORK, May 7.—(AP)—King Prajadibok who, as absolute monarch of Siam, has evolved one of the most successful business systems of the orient, today made his first appearance before a body of American businessmen—the Chamber of Commerce of New York state.

Declaring that the Chamber of Commerce and the Chakri dynasty, which he heads are contemporaries, inasmuch as the chamber was organized 163 years ago at about the time the first member of his family took the throne of Siam, King Prajadibok expressed appreciation of the invitation to address the group. He paid tribute to this country's contribution to the development of his kingdom.

"While the trade between our two countries has not been great in itself, the contacts have on our side produced notable results," he said.

"Many Siamese have been educated in American institutions. Furthermore, a considerable number of American tourists and doctors have been employed in the service of the state. For nearly 30 years my government has had the aid of Americans in the conduct of its foreign affairs, and their services to Siam have been for them the respect and affection of my people."

The king declared that his appearance before the group was probably the last public reception he would attend on his visit to the United States. On Sunday morning he will undergo a traditional ceremony at the removal of a cataract from his left eye.

R. E. BLANCHARD, SR., FINAL RITES HELD

Funeral services for R. E. Blanchard, Sr., 41, southern representative for Sayre & Scoville Co., Cincinnati, were conducted at 4 o'clock Thursday afternoon at the residence, 1146 Oxford road, N. E. The Rev. Luther R. Christie officiated. The body will be taken to Augusta today for interment.

Mr. Blanchard was a member of the Ponce de Leon Baptist church, Clairmont lodge, F. & A. M., Sumter, S. C., the Atlanta Consistory, Scottish Rite Masons, and the Yaarab Temple of the Shrines of Atlanta.

Surviving are his widow, a daughter, Miss Mary Louise Blanchard; a son, R. E. Blanchard, Jr.; three brothers, Henry M. Blanchard and Howard A. Blanchard, of Atlanta, and Shelton A. Blanchard, of Statesville, N. C., and a sister, Mrs. Gordon Chambers.

WOMAN SLAYER DIES IN HOSPITAL

LOS ANGELES, May 7.—(AP)—Mrs. Esther Carlson, 42, who faced trial on a charge of having fatally poisoned her employer, August Lindstrom, St. A. retired lumberman, is dead. She succumbed to tuberculosis in a prison hospital late yesterday.

The trial of Mrs. Anna Erickson, a neighbor charged with complicity in the death of Lindstrom, was halted when word reached the courtroom Mrs. Carlson was in a coma.

Mr. Erickson had been a hospital patient a few weeks before. She became violently ill the night after her arrest. Police quoted her as saying she had drunk a cup of coffee given her by Mrs. Carlson, who was Lindstrom's housekeeper.

Lindstrom died February 9 after having been attended by the women in an illness of several days.

The coroner said an autopsy disclosed a large quantity of poison in the body.

search, racing by sea and air to the coast of Greenland in an effort to be in time. H. G. Watkins, head of the expedition, had reported that efforts to locate young Courtland were fruitless. It was believed his supply of provisions had been exhausted.

Courtland was left in the hut last winter. He was to make meteorological observations. The Watkins expedition was designed to gain information in an effort to prove a northern air route between England and America practical.

Watkins reported Courtland could not be located. He said sled parties searching for the hut failed to find it. The expedition's airplanes were out of commission. Watkins believed an aerial search the only solution and urged that speed was essential, because Courtland's provisions were low if not exhausted.

Captain Ahrenberg, in Sweden, responded to the call. He flew on his dangerous mission from Sweden by way of Bergen, Norway, and Iceland to Greenland in a seaplane. Skis were placed on the plane at Angmagssalik to permit him to land on the ice cap.

NEW YORK POLICE CAPTURE KILLER

mitted shooting and wounding Detective George Schadel in an office building near Grand Central Station more than a month ago.

Police said the Walsh girl had given them information which would aid in conviction of Crowley for the Hirsch shooting.

Crowley was taken to Bellevue hospital under guard. The girl was held as a material witness and Durlinger on a tentative homicide charge.

In the flat where the battle focused and in a back yard below detectives found five guns, all with their ammunition used up. Strapped to Crowley's legs below the knees were the brace of automatics upon which he boasted the sobriquet of "Two-Gun" Crowley in the Harlem underworld.

Crowley's wounds late tonight were said to be serious but not dangerous. Bullets had pierced his arms and legs and one-shot had glanced off a rib. When he was carried on a litter from the riddled rooming house building police had mistakenly reported him dead. The Walsh girl fought her captors. She bore evidences of the strain of the flight from Long Island.

Letters were found in the flat which, police said, indicated the trio had not hoped to come out alive. One of these, in girl's handwriting, had this postscript: "Show this to my

Sought as Modern Lucrezia Borgia

Mrs. Lydia Southard, alleged to have poisoned four husbands and a male relative to collect their insurance, escaped from the Idaho penitentiary at Boise May 4. She scaled the wall with a ladder constructed of pipe and a rope fashioned of strips of blanket and a piece of garden hose. Photo shows Mrs. Lydia Southard with her fifth husband, Paul V. sister so that she will know I died singing." Some were written by Crowley himself on cheap note paper, although designed to appear as if penned by the girl. All bore witness that the writer had been wounded. One which the gunman signed read:

"To Whom It Concerns: I was born on the 31st, she, on the 13th. I guess it was fate that made us meet. Put a lily in my hand so the boys will know how I look. Under my coat is a weary heart, but a kind one—a heart that would do nobody any harm. I had nothing else to do, that's why I went around and bumped off cops. It was a new sensation. Now death is near. There are a couple of bulls outside the door, saying, 'Come out here.' I am behind the door with three '38's, one of which belongs to my friend who put on weight suddenly in North Merrick. He would have got me if his bullets were good." Another which the detectives credited to Helen Walsh reads in part:

"To Whom It May Concern: I'll see you in heaven, if there is such a place. Everybody thinks he's hard (presumably Crowley), but he can't be. He cooked my breakfast this morning and washed my pajamas so that I could sleep in them. The only thing that I regret is that I will never see the rest of the world." "P. S. Show this to my sister so that she will know that I died singing. Please don't talk about me when I'm gone." In another letter the girl wrote:

"May 1931, To Whom It May Concern: I was born October 13, he, October 31, if I die and my face you are able to see, wave my hair, make my face look pretty. Dress me in a new dress. A black and white one. Do my nails all over." "P. S. Everybody happy, and how, Helen Walsh." The last letter, also apparently written by the Walsh girl, read:

"I was visiting the village all

LAND LEVY PLAN BEATEN BY LORDS

LONDON, May 7.—(AP)—The house of lords today threw out all of the main provisions of the government's agricultural land utilization bill by rejecting part one of the measure. The vote was 52 to 31.

Observers believe this action may precipitate a crisis for the bill, which opponents have described as a measure of unmitigated socialism. It already has passed all readings in the house of commons.

Previously the house of lords had rejected the proposal by turning down two clauses of the bill dealing with establishment of an agricultural land corporation and with the power of the government to acquire land for use as demonstration farms.

After the third reading of the bill in the house of lords, which is expected within a few days, it will be returned to commons for reconsideration.

It is regarded as impossible that the government will accept the plan in its amended mutilated form. The only way, therefore, to get it into law would be to invoke the parliament act under which it could be passed over the lords' veto in two years.

Commentators are looking for a likely issue for the general elections in the controversy.

Some observers believe that the chance of fighting on such an issue would be warmly welcomed by the laborites.

TIBBETT IS SUPERB IN "SOUTHERNER"

Lawrence Tibbett, the superbly voiced, plays another quite irrelevant role in "The Southerner," featured in the Grand theater this week. The picture is based on one of those southern stories in which magnolia blossoms, colonial facades and faithful negro retainers are indispensable properties.

But any story that affords Tibbett an opportunity to parade that marvelous technique of his has much to recommend it and "The Southerner" is not behindhand in this respect.

As the prodigal son of what was sometimes referred to, in the late romantic era, as a "fine old southern family," Tibbett does a lot of picturesque roving with a pair of picturesquely devoted comrades, Roland Young and Cliff Edwards ("Doc" and "Snipe" to their young hero). On a visit to the old colonial facade, amid the property magnolia, Tibbett falls in love with the wife of his unworthy brother and magnanimously prevents her from running away with another man. The wife is played by Esther Ralston, who falls in love, too. But the point is that you hear, in "The Southerner," what is probably the most opulent and most highly trained baritone voice before the public today. People stand for hours in the week, in night clubs, with two boys. They are actors. We made a fine trio. We all had a swell time."

FOUR MORE SHOWS OF "DIRIGIBLE" FILM

"Dirigible," that lighter-than-air romance, filmed with the active confluence of the navy department, will terminate its showing in Atlanta with four more performances at the Erlanger theater. Matinees at 2:30 o'clock on Friday and Saturday and evening shows at 8:30 o'clock the same days, are the last opportunities to see the picture.

Everything that has come to be accepted as a criterion of the complete moving picture—timeliness, in the showing of lighter-than-air craft, and in the simulation of an antarctic flight romance, in the persons of Fay Wray, Jack Holt and Ralph Graves; authenticity, in view of the fact that the navy department gave its permission to the use of the Los Angeles only in the event that the usual hokum would not be present in the picture; action, exemplified by a loop-the-loop with the dirigible as the pivotal point, and by a navy plane zooming through the haze at Lakeland without touching the ground; newness, in particular putting stress on the hooking of a plane in full flight to the dirigible, also in full flight, a feat never before filmed in a feature picture, and conflict, as portrayed by Holt and Graves, falling in love with

SEA HOP PLANNED BY MISS INGALLS

NEW YORK, May 7.—(AP)—Laura Ingalls, the first woman to make a round-trip coast-to-coast flight, today announced her intention of attempting a solo flight across the Atlantic within a few months.

Backing for the flight will be provided by a private corporation, Miss Ingalls said. She would not divulge the type of plane she would use or the route she would take.

Miss Ingalls denied she was contemplating a race with Ruth Nichols, of Rye, N. Y., who also is preparing for a trans-ocean flight.

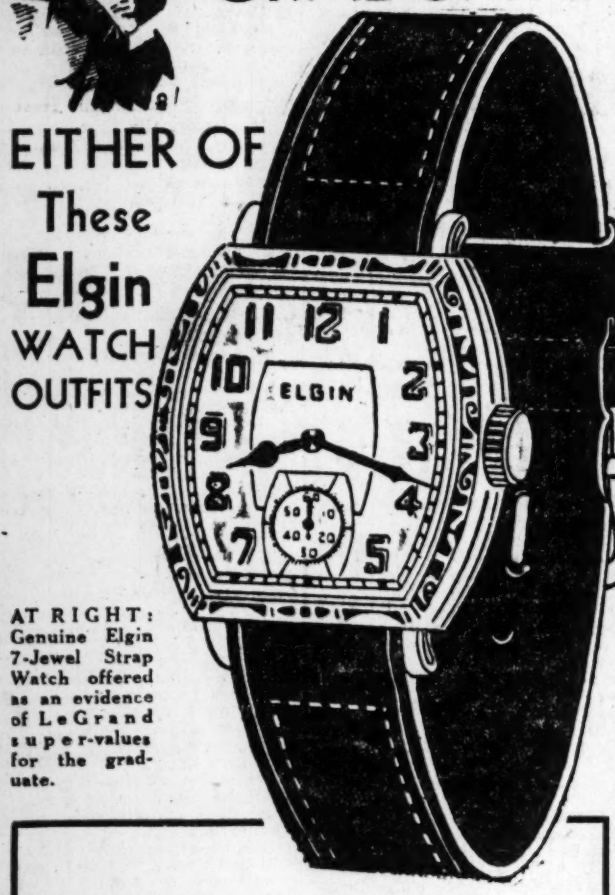

Miss Ingalls won her pilot's license in St. Louis where she learned to fly while working as a secretary. She holds the world's barrel-roll record for men and women and the women's loop record.

CURB ON GOVERNOR SCORED BY WALKER

Constitution Commended for Winning Pulitzer Award by City Club.

Weakness of the state constitution in providing an effective administrative head was pointed out by former Governor Clifford Walker Thursday in an address before the City Club. The club at its meeting adopted resolutions commending the Constitution on receiving the Pulitzer award.

An appeal for a constitution granting the governor power to carry out the constructive policies of the platform by which he is elected to the executive office and for creation of public sentiment that will cause "perdition and damnation" forever to follow the politician who, for his own aggrandizement, seeks to prevent the governor in so doing, was made by Governor Walker.

"Georgia's political system is not one of two parties, but of two factions. It's a question of the crowd that's out continually seeking to oust the crowd that's in by keeping the men in office from accomplishing anything constructive," the former state executive asserted. "That is the political method in vogue here, and it is to blame for the lack of progress being made by the government."

Taking as his subject, "The Executive Department Under the Constitution," Mr. Walker declared that it is fundamental to the welfare of the state, as it is to that of any private corporation, that there be an administrative head empowered to do constructive work and allowed the full confidence of the people to whom he is responsible for fulfilling his campaign pledges.

Recognition of the high honor bestowed upon The Atlanta Constitution for outstanding public service was paid by the club at the opening of its session. A resolution congratulating Clark Howell and the paper for winning the Pulitzer prize, was adopted.

"In view of the close co-operation between The Constitution and the City Club in bringing about an effective investigation of city graft conditions, our club should feel complimented that the Pulitzer prize was awarded The Constitution for the specific service in which this club as a civic organization and through its members played so prominent a part," President Walter McElreath remarked in receiving the motion for congratulation of the paper. The motion was introduced by J. P. McGrath and seconded by Frank Beck, who with Edgar Watkins, Jr., were appointed as a committee to draw the resolution.

The resolution follows:

"Whereas, we have learned that The Atlanta Constitution has been singled out by the committee to award the Pulitzer prize for its outstanding public service to its community during the year 1930, and

"Whereas, in accordance with this selection The Atlanta Constitution, and Mr. Clark Howell, its publisher and editor, have been selected to receive the Pulitzer prize;

HIGH WINDS STOP JAPANESE FLYER

NEMURO, Japan, May 7.—(AP)—Fierce stormy blast back the light sailplane of Seiji Yoshikawa to this port today after he had taken off for Muroran bay in the volcanic Kurile islands on the third hop of his flight of 6,268 miles from Tokyo to San Francisco.

The young Japanese, with a hazardous air journey before him across the Bering sea and north Pacific ocean, has been held here since Tuesday. With only 665 miles flown from Tokyo, Yoshikawa must make 18 or more flights before San Francisco is reached. Fog and gale are his chief obstacles.

He received the gold medal and cash prize accompanying this honor, therefore. "Be It Resolved, that the City Club of Atlanta, having in mind the part played in the investigation and prosecution of the principal malefactors by the wide publicity given the efforts of the solicitor-general to clean up our community, and the advocacy of the Constitution, a program of reform to that end, does compliment and commend the award committee for its judgment, and Honorable Clark Howell and The Atlanta Constitution for their self-sacrifice and zeal in so consistently following out the duty assumed by them."

This resolution adopted at a general meeting of the Atlanta City Club, this 7th day of May, 1931.

GERMANY TO ASK NEW DEBT TERMS, C. OF C. IS TOLD

precarious conditions of international trade," he said, "showed clearly that the factor of reparation was a disturbing one."

He told of German export trade having increased in the first quarter of this year and said this was accounted for not by increasing exports but by heavy shrinkage of imports.

"This must be considered as a signal of serious economic danger," he said. "It shows that Germany, under the pressure of her huge reparation debt in connection with the aggregate of international indebtedness abroad is forced to cut down her purchases from other countries to the lowest possible limit in order to find the means of meeting her foreign obligations."

"On the other hand, she is equally compelled to try and sell her goods abroad in keener competition, wherever she can, in the face of tariff walls and unprofitable prices. That such a development of Germany's trade is detrimental to the other countries, and the more in a period of worldwide depression, and in the last result to hers because there are limits to everything, needs no further evidence."

Declaring the reparations problem still awaits a complete economic solution, Bergmann said that since the existing agreements were concluded the world has undergone such violent economic changes that a settlement "which may have been considered possible at the time, may now be looked at much more critically."

Mr. Bell said England in 1930 had bought more than four times as much goods from the United States than this country had from England.

"In the whole of Europe, America sells twice as much to Europe than it does to America," he said.

Meanwhile, the way cleared for adoption by the chamber of a resolution calling for a world conference on silver with the withdrawal of British objection.

Sir Arthur Balfour, who had proposed that a limited international conference be held in lieu of the Chinese suggestion of a world conference, agreed to the latter proposal.

Alfred Falter, chairman of the Polish delegation, told the agricultural group meeting that industrial production to consumption was imperative.

"Irrespective of the final result which Russia may obtain by her planned economic and agricultural activity," he said, "the effect of such an activity must make it impossible for the world as long as it remains in its present disordered condition, to check the actual crisis. A systematized economy within the limits set by capitalism is not possible but is a historic necessity."

The call for adjustment of production to needs also was made by H. L. Russell, former dean of the University of Wisconsin College of Agriculture, without mentioning the farm board, he said governmental action that artificially maintains prices when the economic situation is temporarily expedient rather than a cure.

A proposal that world agricultural production be adapted to consumption by international settlement is being considered by the resolutions committee.

Approved today by agricultural representatives, the measure was passed on to the resolutions committee to determine whether it should be referred to the entire congress.

The agricultural group found that such action would be the only means, under present conditions of heavy industrial and agricultural crises, to master the situation.

It would have the congress recommend not only adaptation of production to consumption by international settlement, but crop financing, and rest all Georgia officers who attempted to arrest them, instructed the state motor vehicle department to enforce the automobile law in Georgia regardless of the persons involved.

Studying Law. And with the preliminary defenses thus out of the way, both sides Thursday afternoon settled down to study law on the question of enforcement of the Georgia motor vehicle license law act on prohibition agents, in preparation for the reopening of hostilities in United States Commissioner E. S. Griffith's court Thursday of next week. At that time the case of two state officers charged with interfering with a federal prohibition agent will be gone into.

On the one hand freely cooperating with each other in a study of the law and decisions involving the points in question, and on the other hand jealously guarding their respective rights, the Georgia and federal attorneys engaged in a long conference Thursday afternoon in the offices of District Attorney Hager. The result was that a week's postponement was granted to the state.

While consenting to the postponement of the preliminary hearing, Mr. Hager made it plain that he has issued instructions to prohibition agents that they are to arrest all state officers interfering with federal officers, and immediately before Judge Griffith for a warrant.

Use of "Shields." District Attorney Hager and Howard P. Wright, deputy prohibition administrator, said that an order issued in August, 1928, by W. W. Woodcock, national prohibition administrator, requiring prohibition agents to carry in their cars a prohibition department shield, has no bearing on the present controversy.

"The order by Mr. Woodcock never intended that the agents should display the shields on their cars at all times," Mr. Hager said. "The order covering use of the shields involves a display of the shields only when the agents are chasing whisky cars or are attempting to stop bootleggers. The agents are not required to advertise their cars as prohibition automobiles."

Mr. Wright pointed out that the state officers are not required to pursue a liquor car or stop such a vehicle. It was adopted to identify the agents to the persons being stopped and to eliminate any chance of the agents being mistaken for bandits or hi-jackers, Mr. Wright said.

When Judge Griffith called the case Thursday afternoon, Assistant Attorney General T. R. Gress, representing the state officers, moved for a continuance on the ground that the high court's decision is pending to study the law on the question.

"This has been a live question for two years," Mr. Hager objected. "I have never heard of the matter before," said Mr. Gress. "Mr. Hager's statement shows that the government has been preparing on this case for two years."

Solicitor John S. McClelland, of criminal court of Atlanta, before whom an accusation charging Clark with violating the state auto license tag act was sworn out by the state officers, is assisting Mr. Gress in the case. Mr. McClelland pointed out that the state had not had a real opportunity to prepare and declared that the defense must know the law on the question before it can know the mode of defense.

When it was suggested that part of the evidence be taken at once and the defense operation postponed to the next day, Mr. Hager said he did not want to take up the case piecemeal, and would have no objection to a reasonable delay in the performance of his official duties," Mr. Hager said.

Pointing out that the federal authorities have at all times received co-operation from all branches of the state, county and municipal governments with the exception of the tag inspection department of the state, Mr. Hager said that the government is not required to either purchase a license tag or place a sign on the car that it is a prohibition car so that tag inspectors "as well as bootleggers may readily identify the car."

The state cannot tax an instrumentality of the government or require the government to place a sign on a government owned automobile nor can they require a driver's license of one who operates such an automobile, Mr. Hager said. "Neither can the tag inspection division of the state government paralyze the arm of prohibition enforcement by requiring the government to place a sign on the car that the same is a prohibition car, and thus advertise to bootleggers at large when the government officers are on a certain road in a particular vicinity," Mr. Hager declared.

Mr. Hager suggested that if the secretary of state will furnish state tags for government owned and operated automobiles as he says, is done in practically all of the other states, the government will place such tags on government owned cars so the state department may have a record of the cars and the tags on them.

ALLEGED VIOLATOR POSTS BOND AND IS RE-ARRESTED. MASON, Ga., May 7.—(AP)—W. S. RAFE KING GUILTY OF WIFE MURDER

LANCASTER, S. C., May 7.—(AP)—Rafe King, Sharon farmer, tonight was convicted for the second time of the murder of his pretty school-teacher wife, Fay Wilson King, more than two years ago. The jury recommended mercy, automatically fixing the sentence as life imprisonment.

At his first trial, King was convicted of first degree murder without recommendation of mercy and sentenced to be electrocuted. He was granted a new trial by the state supreme court.

KIWANIANS TO MEET IN DETROIT IN 1932

MIAMI, Fla., May 7.—(AP)—Detroit was chosen for the 1932 convention of Kiwanis International at the closing of the annual convention here today.

The delegates also elected six international trustees nominated on the convention floor yesterday. The trustees named today were Carl E. Endicott, Huntington, Ind.; Herbert A. Moore, Du Bois, Pa.; Edmund C. van Diest, Colorado Springs, Col.; David H. Edington, Mobile, Ala.; H. S. Hatfield, Oklahoma City, Okla., and Russell S. Perkins, Petersburg, Va.

Districts announced as winners in the annual attendance contest were Western Canada, gold division; New Jersey, silver division; California, Nevada, blue division, and Florida, white division.

Club winners in the attendance contest all were from California. They were Long Beach, gold division; Modesto, silver; Huntington, blue, and Martinez, white.

Winners in the club efficiency contest were Jersey City, N. J., gold division; E. C. Matheson, silver; Saint Ste. Marie, Mich., blue, and Willmar, Minn., white.

BAILEY DECLARES CONTEST FRIVOLOUS

RALEIGH, N. C., May 7.—(AP)—Josiah W. Bailey, democrat, today made public his reply to the contest of his election to the United States senate, terming the contest "unfounded and frivolous" and asking that it be dismissed without a hearing.

Bailey denied charges of "fraud and irregularities" made by former Representative George M. Pritchard, defeated republican candidate, in bringing the contest. He asserted the charges were "insufficient to support an inquiry or a contest."

Pritchard, whom the count in last November's election showed to have been defeated by 113,632 votes, filed the contest near the close of the last session of congress.

A move to have the ballot boxes impounded on federal court orders and turned over by United States marshals to a senate subcommittee investigating the alleged "errors and election irregularities" was shown Pritchard to have been defeated by "not less than 10,000 votes."

Bailey, in his reply to Pritchard's contest, said that "assuming to be true every allegation of the contestant, each of which is denied," not enough votes would be shifted to change the result of the election.

out in the dead of the night as if they were going after men who had committed murder and arrested them and brought them to jail. They even refused to let me see the bodies of the men who were killed. I do not like that attitude. I do not think it is fair."

Hager Gives Views. In a statement issued Thursday, District Attorney Hager said that Slade and Derrick were arrested on two charges: conspiracy to unlawfully oppose and interfere with a prohibition agent, and opposing and interfering with the performance of his official duties," Mr. Hager said.

Pointing out that the federal authorities have at all times received co-operation from all branches of the state, county and municipal governments with the exception of the tag inspection department of the state, Mr. Hager said that the government is not required to either purchase a license tag or place a sign on the car that it is a prohibition car so that tag inspectors "as well as bootleggers may readily identify the car."

BOARD WILL HOLD HEARINGS ON R.C.

WASHINGTON, May 7.—(AP)—A decision to conduct hearings to determine the propriety of renewing more than 3,400 radio licenses held by the Radio Corporation of America and its reputed subsidiaries was reached today by the radio commission.

The hearings, set for June 15 before the entire commission, will decide whether it would refuse renewal of the licenses of the companies involved, in view of recent federal court decisions holding the Radio Corporation's act under which the companies were created to be illegal.

The controversy arose from the recent refusal by the supreme court to review the case brought by the DeForest Radio Company of Passaic, N. J., which charged the Radio Corporation's tube contracts constituted a violation of the anti-trust laws.

The radio act, under which the commission acts, provides in one section licenses shall be denied to any company or its subsidiaries finally adjudged to have created or attempted to create a monopoly. A sharp division of opinion exists, however, as to whether this section was intended by congress to apply to cases such as that brought by the DeForest company, or only to criminal proceedings.

Commissioner LaFollette expressed the view that regardless of the decision made upon the hearings, some interested party would appeal the case to the court of appeals. In view of this, he said, the commission decided upon after the hearings, would serve to develop all the evidence for presentation to that court.

The commission said only one renewal application from the Radio Corporation and each of its subsidiaries would be involved in the hearings. Other licenses necessary for continuance of existing services will be renewed on a temporary basis pending outcome of the hearings.

Senator Dill, democrat, Washington. "You are fully aware, are you, that there is a law involved here and that you are subject to prosecution?"

"Yes," he repeated. "I have nothing further to add to my statement." C. B. Stevens, Charlottesville, Va., banker, who had been subpoenaed, was excused by Chairman Nye after the examination of Miss Burroughs, although Stevens apparently was willing to testify.

Nye indicated the Stevens testimony further to add to his statement. The committee had hoped to get from Miss Burroughs.

Senator Nye went through the entire series of questions he had intended to propound to Miss Burroughs. They related to her filing of reports to congress, as required by law, of receipts and expenditures of the anti-smith committee.

Representative Tinkham has accused Stevens of having received an account for a major portion of the $65,300 given to him as chairman of the anti-smith committee in Virginia by E. C. Matheson, silver, Saint Ste. Marie, Mich., blue, and Willmar, Minn., white.

GAS RATE HIKE OPPOSED BY CITY

consideration the nearly 100 per cent difference in the heat content of artificial and natural gas.

Professor Riggs declared that a service charge was the only fair way of building a rate structure and under examination of Charles S. Reed, consulting engineer for the gas company, expressed the opinion that the average consumer would be most benefited by a service charge of $1.80 as between the rates of four rates outlined by Reed, two of which have been submitted as alternative proposals by the company. The $1.80 service charge, however, is not one of the rates the company is asking.

The Ann Arbor expert placed a valuation almost $3,000,000 below that fixed by the terms of a rate schedule of properties in Atlanta and Marietta, appraising both at $10,261,219.

Another commission expert, C. J. Metz, Atlanta auditor, testified Tuesday morning with respect to the earnings of the Atlanta Gas Light Company prior to and since the introduction of natural gas.

Metz said that during the 11 months ending March 31, 1931, the net income of the company was $675,300.50, less than the net income for the 12-month period ending April 1, 1930. Natural gas was furnished during most of the 11-month period while artificial gas was furnished throughout the 12-month period.

The company's net income, Metz said, during the period ending April 30, 1930, while artificial gas was furnished, was $866,095.08, while during the 11 months ending March 31, 1931, when natural gas was furnished most of the time, the net income was only $190,788.58.

Discussing the question of increasing rates at the present time, Professor Riggs, in his direct testimony, told the commission:

"Business conditions in the United States are distinctly bad. The affairs of this gas company are amply sufficient to cause grave uneasiness to the management. They are the inevitable results of the change from manufactured to natural gas, combined with the general business depression. They are due to the fact that the utmost liberality of the public."

Hearings on the petition of the company for an increase will be resumed at 9 o'clock this morning with the same officer.

RAFE KING GUILTY OF WIFE MURDER

LANCASTER, S. C., May 7.—(AP)—Rafe King, Sharon farmer, tonight was convicted for the second time of the murder of his pretty school-teacher wife, Fay Wilson King, more than two years ago. The jury recommended mercy, automatically fixing the sentence as life imprisonment.

At his first trial, King was convicted of first degree murder without recommendation of mercy and sentenced to be electrocuted. He was granted a new trial by the state supreme court.

INSTALLMENT XII.

It was Toni who first recovered herself, holding him against her throbbing breast, when the storm of passion and anguish relief was past—relief so absolute, so acute after the stern control of these last terrible months, that for a little he was as exhausted as she. Not till he felt her embrace slacken through sheer strain was he able to pull himself together and in his turn comfort her, and then for a while they rested on the low couch, till at last he spoke.

"Toni—my darling—it's late—after ten. You shouldn't be here. I ought to have thought of it before."

"It doesn't matter... and I'm charmed!"—she laughed, the first little ghost of a laugh of returning happiness, "quite efficiently by Francis, dear old man. Anyway, I'll go now—you will drive me home, won't you? You needn't come in, you don't want to see anyone tonight."

"I could not!" Feodor said, and he, too, smiled. "After making such an exhibition of myself, I'm proud to show myself. Toni—my darling—I'll come tomorrow. You will tell Lady Alice?"

"Of course. Early. There's a lot to do—"

Toni lay back in the car, her hand in Stairs', her eyes dwelling on his face, but her strength had gone; she was so exhausted that she could not even speak, and Stairs felt an anxiety that gripped his heart like a vice. Siboux had done a little for him, but he had not in the least guessed the real state of Toni's health, and her frailty clutched at his very soul. She had been so intensely happy, and it had hurt her more for a certain grim anger against life had upheld him, but for her there had been the helplessness of youth, the severing of every strand of hope. He sat there, the soft air blowing against his hot eyes, holding Toni's hand in his that was already calloused and stained by those months of hard labor; smiling at her, murmuring an endearment, but making no demand upon her for a response; and beneath his gentleness with her he felt the cold sickness of fear...

"Darling, you'll come early tomorrow? Oh, I'm afraid it's a dream!" Feodor went to Lady Alice's apartment for luncheon the next day, and after discussing plans for all of them to get away from the kindness of their friends in Paris, it was decided to take a villa in Combe. Feodor and Toni drove out into the country in the afternoon and on their return, Toni, admitting fatigue, went to lie down.

Lady Alice, seeing his anxiety tried to reassure him.

"Toni will recover her strength in a little while," she said. "Her youth and her naturally courageous disposition will help her to regain her health, but it will take time for her to recover from the strain even as it will for you, dear Feodor."

He smiled a little at the sympathy of her tone; then, after a moment's hesitation, spoke of the other matter that had not ceased to trouble him since he had received the news of his release: the state of affairs between Greta and Ronald.

"Tell me how things are," he said finally. "If possible I want to see Ronald."

Lady Alice's face was very pale; for a moment she did not reply, and when she did it was with a visible effort.

"Mr. Astley was very kind and gave Ronald a month's leave of absence. He intends, I think, to send him somewhere as a foreign correspondent. Greta will go with him. At this moment they are in a little village in Switzerland."

"Do you think Ronald would see me if I went?"

"My dear, of course he would see you. Only—won't it be painful for you both?"

"Yes," he said briefly, "but I feel it is necessary. Greta is Toni's sister."

"And my daughter!" his companion said in a low voice; and with a smothered exclamation Stairs took her hand in his and kissed it.

"My dear Alice," he said very gently, dropping all ceremony for the first time, "forgive me for forcing this subject upon you. Don't think I don't guess what it has all meant to you—but you as well as Ronald, must know this one thing. There is no bitterness against Greta in my heart. She was under a frightful strain, and she lost self-control and feeling under it for a time."

"You're very extraordinary to be able to look at it that way."

"We all do things that are contemptible and wicked; but we do not always have to expose them to the world. Think of that, not of anything else."

The very next day, after talking the matter over with Toni, Stairs left for Switzerland and Cesarina, the little village where Greta and Ronald were. Secretly he dreaded the meeting, but for his own peace of mind it had to be faced, and the sooner the better.

He reached Cesarina, or rather the nearest station, the next morning, and drove in an ancient car up a long climbing road, to the little village nestled in the valley of the little Blanc's southwestern slope; and just before he reached it the car stopped in answer to a hail, and he got out to find Ronald awaiting him in answer to his telegram.

The two friends met with no single word of greeting. Ronald, white and weary-looking, could not speak, but clasped the other's hand mutely; and Stairs, seeing his emotion, did not expect a spoken welcome.

Telling the driver to take his bag on to the little inn, he thrust his arm through Ronald's and walked with him slowly up the last quarter-mile of winding road, and he was not aware, unconsciously at an unexpected turn, and gaze at the great panorama.

"What a glorious spot!" he said at last. "My God, Ronald, this is one of the most wonderful sights I've ever seen. Does Greta like it?"

He was not looking at him, but he sensed the change in Ronald's face at the mention of her name.

"I think so. She hasn't said anything. She's not very fit, you know."

"No? I'm sorry. Nothing organic?"

"No. Nothing of the sort. Just—brooding."

"And she's killing you?" Stairs thought, with a quick sidelong glance at his friend. Ronald looked incredibly older. The hair on his temples was gray; there were heavy shadows beneath his eyes, which were hollow and strained, and lines cut about his sensitive sweet-tempered mouth. Whatever Greta had been through Ronald had shared—that Stairs instinctively knew, and his own wonder was whether she realized just what she was doing to this man, who loved and sheltered her with such unswerving devotion.

Ronald led him round the corner of the little house to the tiny terrace and spoke.

"Here's Feodor. His train was in to the minute."

Out of the basket-chair a wraith-like figure arose, and with a shock of dismay he recognized Greta; lovely still but incredibly thin; Greta, with violet circles beneath her eyes, and threads of gray mingled thickly with the pale gold of her hair; Greta, innocent of makeup and waxen as to cheeks and lips. For nearly a minute he could not speak, then he held out both his hands and took her cold ones in his.

"Greta, you look like a ghost!" he said. "You must be starving yourself."

"I'm quite well. I was always thin," Greta answered tonelessly.

After tea and some small talk, Feodor took the plunge, and spoke quite directly, if with some difficulty.

"Greta—Ronald—I came to see you to tell you that—that now it is all over, we must take up our friendship. We must forget what has happened. We must, for the sake of those who love us. Do you—do you agree?"

Ronald got up from his chair abruptly, and walking over to the parapet stood a little way away, his back to them, looking out over the tranquil valley; but Greta did not move, and Stairs spoke again.

"Greta," his voice was quiet, but there was an undercurrent of emotion in it, hard to hear unvoiced, "I want you to put all these last wretched months behind you. To wipe them out of your mind as I shall out of mine. This is the one favor I ask of you—the one condition. Will you try?"

CARLTON DENIES SHORTAGE CHARGE

Fire Department Official Suspended After Discovery of Alleged $3,800 Discrepancy.

Denying that any shortage exists in funds of the Firemen's Benefit Association, of which he has been secretary and treasurer since 1907, G. Ben Carlton, for nearly 40 years a leading figure in the Atlanta fire department, Thursday night declared he will show "where every penny has gone" when he leaves his hospital bed where he is suffering from a broken rib due to an accident. He branded the action against him as a "frameup" by political enemies.

Members of the Atlanta board of firemen's Thursday afternoon suspended Carlton, pending completion of an audit of accounts of the association, when representatives of the firm of Haskins & Sells, auditors, told members of the board that an "apparent shortage of $3,800 exists."

"When I get up from here, I will show where every penny of this money went," Carlton said. "If there is any shortage, which certainly does not exist, I will make every penny of it good. This whole thing seems to me an effort of a few political enemies to frame me. The board does not know all the facts."

Carlton has not been on duty for the past several weeks, and failed, it was said, to permit his books to be examined. All records were placed in the hands of auditors Thursday afternoon after locksmiths had opened Carlton's safe as he was being removed to the hospital.

Members of the board of firemen's, Chief John Terrell and Captain J. L. Ivey, president of the association, declined to discuss the matter. In addition to being secretary and treasurer of the association, Carlton is secretary of the board of firemen's and secretary to Chief Terrell. He has been connected with the department for nearly 40 years and served the late Chief William B. Cody as secretary. He was mentioned prominently as a probable successor to Cody.

U. OF TENNESSEE TO GRADUATE 300

KNOXVILLE, Tenn., May 7.—(AP)—Nearly 300 students will receive University of Tennessee degrees at the 124th annual commencement of the university June 8.

The graduating class, which Registrar R. F. Thomason says is the largest in the history of the university, is composed of about 250 seniors and 30 graduate students.

Dr. A. W. Fortune, pastor of the Central Christian church, of Lexington, Ky., will deliver the baccalaureate sermon Sunday evening, June 7.

The university will graduate in liberal arts, 85; education, 42; commerce, 24; home economics, 21; engineering, 20; agriculture, 27, and law, 14.

WAKE UP YOUR LIVER BILE— WITHOUT CALOMEL

And You'll Jump Out of Bed in the Morning Rarin' to Go

If you feel sour and sunk and the world looks punk, don't swallow a lot of salts, mineral water, oil, laxative candy or chewing gum and expect them to make you suddenly sweet and buoyant and full of sunshine.

For they can't do it. They only move the bowels and a mere movement doesn't get at the cause. The reason for your down-and-out feeling is your liver. It should pour out two pounds of liquid bile into your bowels daily.

If this bile is not flowing freely, your food doesn't digest. It just decays in the bowels. Gas bloats up your stomach. You have a thick, bad taste and your breath is foul, skin often breaks out in blotches. Your head aches and you feel down and out. Your whole system is poisoned.

It takes three good, old CARTER'S LITTLE LIVER PILLS to get these two pounds of bile flowing freely and make you feel "up and up." They contain wonderful, harmless, gentle vegetable extracts, amazing when it comes to making the bile flow freely.

But don't ask for liver pills. Ask for Carter's Little Liver Pills. Look for the name Carter's Little Liver Pills on the red label. Resist a substitute.

How To Stop Skin Itching In 2 Minutes

If you suffer from skin eruptions of any kind, pimples, itch, tetter, ringworm, eczema, etc., a pleasant ointment, known as Tetterine, containing highly effective parasite germ-destroying and skin-healing properties, never fails to bring quick and permanent relief.

Tetterine, by its cooling, soothing, antiseptic effect, kills the parasites that bore into the skin, causing irritation and itching. Tetterine is sold and guaranteed by all druggists at 60c a box or sent direct, postpaid, upon receipt of price. Shuptione Co., Savannah, Ga.—(adv.)

"Paradise Club" Owner Convicted as Gambler

Frank Jones, negro bondman, exercised a pretty choice in names when he selected "Paradise Club" for his incorporated social parlor, according to Solicitor John S. McClelland, of criminal court of Atlanta. The name, Mr. McClelland pointed out after Jones' conviction of running a gaming house, rhymes suspiciously with the label for gambling dominoes.

Jones will be sentenced today by Judge Jesse M. Wood. Officers presented in court a "kitty" containing seven 25-cent pieces. Witnesses who were seized at a pool table where officers said they saw a pair of dice and some money, all claimed that the money was being gathered for a "sociable." The witnesses, however, could not agree on the date of the "sociable."

GARRISON TO SEEK FREEDOM UNDER WRIT

SAN DIEGO, Cal., May 7.—(AP)—Officers investigating the slaying of Hazel Bradshaw, 20, were spurred to new effort by an announcement that M. E. Garrison, 37, her suitor, might seek freedom under a writ of habeas corpus today.

M. E. GARRISON.

Detective Captain Paul J. Hayes said if he could find a witness who could identify Garrison as the man seen merging from a road leading to the scene of the slaying, the police case would be complete.

Captain Hayes said a man and his fiancée, whose names he withheld, were parked Saturday at midnight within 100 yards of the scene and saw some man emerge from the darkness of the road. Captain Hayes linked their statement with that of Harry F. Stevenson, park employee, who said he saw Garrison and a girl pass through the center of the park at 11:25 p. m.

Acting upon the suggestion of Garrison's landlord, Captain Hayes said he was trying to find whether the suspect maintained another apartment. He said he regarded as of little importance the finding of small blood stains on the sheets of Garrison's bed.

An inquest over the girl's body will be held Monday.

Final Programs For Music Week Are Interesting

Atlanta will bring to a close its observance of National Music Week with a number of interesting concerts sponsored by music organizations, schools, local studios and other groups. A complete calendar for the remainder of the week, as announced Thursday, follows:

Friday, 3:00 P. M.—Miss Lily Allen, in studio recital.

3:30 P. M.—Studio recital by piano pupils of Mrs. Jane Mattingly, 734 Frederick street.

4:00 P. M.—Violin recital by pupils of Miss Mary Douglas, assisted by Mrs. Vivian Russell Graft, Atlanta Conservatory.

Saturday—Morning program devoted to "The Influence of Music in the Community," by pupils of Miss Dorothy J. Waldman at her studio.

3:30 P. M.—Recital by Mrs. Madeline Whitehead, palm room, Ansley hotel.

4:00 P. M.—Students' recital, Morgan Stephens Conservatory, 1065 Peachtree street.

Mrs. M. E. Patterson will entertain members of her violin class at a musical tea, 1013 Blue Ridge avenue.

Calm Bandit Takes $75 at Pistol Point

Unobtrusively threatening the manager of a Piggly Wiggly store at 442 Angier avenue with a pistol and forcing him to put the contents of his cash register into a bag along with some groceries he had ordered, a lone white bandit Thursday afternoon escaped with $75 in an automobile he had left parked in a neighboring street.

While the manager, J. P. Duncann, of East Point, was staring into the muzzle of a pistol concealed under the bandit's coat, two other employees, thinking the "customer" was paying his bill, went unconcernedly about their duties. O. L. Shurman, meat cutter, of 24 North Moreland avenue, went right on cutting meat, and Earl Smith, clerk, of 27 Brown Mill road, went right on dressing a window. The holdup, perpetrated at 6:20 o'clock on one of the busiest corners in that section of the city, went off so smoothly that no one but the victim was aware of it till it was all over and the bandit had made good his escape.

SOUTH PAPER BOOM IS SEEN BY HERTY

NEW YORK, May 7.—(AP)—Dr. Charles A. Herty, industrial consulting chemist, believes the newsprint and wood pulp industry will shift from New York, England and Canada to the south. He displayed sample paper made from southern slash pine trees at the exposition of chemical industries yesterday.

The sample paper, he explained, was pulped by the ordinary sulphite process by the federal department of agriculture, and so far had proved successful. This indicated that slash, loblolly, short leaf and long leaf pine, hitherto considered useless for newsprint, could now be utilized.

Papermakers considered southern pines contained too much resin for pulp, but new tests, Dr. Herty explained, showed that pine contained little resin the first 25 years of its life.

In the warm southern climate pine would grow much faster than Canadian spruce, Dr. Herty pointed out. He estimated the present growth covered 150,000,000 acres.

RADIO 'AD' BAN ASKED BY P.-T.A. CONFERENCE

Delegates Also Vote To Continue Support of 18th Amendment.

HOT SPRINGS, Ark., May 7.—(AP)—After adopting resolutions directed at radio broadcasting and movies, the annual meeting of the National Congress of Parents and Teachers adjourned late today.

The resolutions, among 30 submitted and adopted without opposition, were the crystallization of criticism by speakers before the congress during its four-day session.

Asserting a belief radio broadcasting is an extension of the home, this resolution favored public ownership and operation of broadcasting channels and facilities and elimination of advertising from programs.

"Indecent appeals in movie advertising" were condemned in another resolution which urged "cleaner and better motion pictures." Disapproval of the system of blind booking and block handling of films also was expressed.

Another resolution pledged continued support of the eighteenth amendment.

The board of managers will meet tonight to select the place for the 1932 meeting. Five cities, Detroit, Minneapolis, Des Moines, Chicago and Wichita, Kan., have extended invitations. Honolulu sent an invitation for the 1936 convention.

"We believe radio broadcasting is an extension of the home," this resolution said, "that it is a form of education; that the broadcasting channels should forever remain in the hands of the public; that facilities should be fairly divided between national, state and county governments; that they should be operated at public expense and freed from commercial advertising."

The 30 resolutions were offered as a guide in achieving the aims of the "children's charter," formulated at the White House conference on child health and protection.

Having obtained eight members, the Ohio congress won the life membership cup for the fifth consecutive time. The Texas congress, which donated the cup, was second with five and Washington third with three. North Dakota won the active membership banner.

Life memberships were awarded Mrs. Merle T. Shaw, Cincinnati; Mrs. Annie Lange, of Little Rock, first vice president of the Arkansas congress; Dr. C. T. Drennan, Hot Springs, and Mrs. B. I. Elliott, Portland, Ore.

NAVAL OFFICERS GIVEN NEW POSTS

WASHINGTON, May 7.—(AP)—Captain H. G. Fisher, commandant of the Great Lakes division, was transferred by coast guard headquarters today to command the gulf division with headquarters at Mobile, Ala. Captain H. H. Wolfe, commander of the destroyer Force, was assigned to succeed Captain Wolf with headquarters at Sanit Ste. Marie, Mich.

Captain T. G. Crapster, of the destroyer Mendota, was assigned to command the destroyer Force, and Lieutenant C. F. Edge, of the naval air station at Pensacola, Fla., was assigned to the Cape May, New Jersey, base.

Captain W. H. Shea, commanding section base 9, Cape May, was assigned to command the Mendota, at Norfolk, Va., effective August 31.

SMITH INTERVIEW SAYS PROHIBITION IS ISSUE

Former Governor Declares Both Parties Must Take Definite Stand.

PRINCETON, N. J., May 7.—(AP)—The Daily Princetonian tomorrow will quote Alfred E. Smith as saying that "both political parties will have to take a definite stand on prohibition in the next presidential election."

"Citizens throughout the country are demanding a prompt settlement of the question," the former governor of New York is quoted as saying in an interview. He reviewed the suggestion of John J. Raskob, chairman of the national democratic committee, of a supplementary eighteenth amendment for states dissatisfied with the present situation.

"The chairman of the democratic national committee has offered the most important suggestion," says the former democratic presidential nominee.

After outlining the Raskob proposal, Mr. Smith comments: "In other words, this proposed reformation of prohibition entails the unquestionably sound democratic principle of permitting the electorate to determine its own policy. Its leading feature is that it leaves the whole question to be settled by the people."

"The southern states which are dry would never relax in the provisions of the present law; but on the other hand such states as Connecticut, which are evidently overwhelmingly wet, would have the right to more liberal statutes, and would certainly take advantage of the opportunity."

14 Die in Fire.

TOKYO, May 7.—(AP)—Fourteen persons, all Japanese, were burned to death and property valued at $2,000,000, as destroyed in a series of fires which swept various Japanese communities today.

SARGON

CAMELS can go 80 days without water

If you are a regular Camel smoker you already have noticed a big improvement in your favorite cigarette.

If you're not a Camel smoker we ask you to switch to this brand for just one day, then leave them if you can.

Thanks to the new Humidor Pack even a rancher on the Great American Desert can now revel in the fragrant luxury of expertly blended choicest Turkish and Domestic tobaccos in fresh mild condition.

As fast as they come out of the cigarette making machine, Camels now are wrapped in moisture-proof Cellophane and air-sealed.

That means they retain their mildness, freshness, and natural moisture until they come to you.

It is peppery dust and parched-dry tobacco that are harsh and unkind to a smoker's throat.

If you want the proof of that, try Camels in the new Humidor Pack today, and switch back tomorrow, if you can.

Marionettes Demonstrate Creative Genius and Versatility To Be Found in Talented Ranks of Atlanta Junior League

The miniature stage with a group of the puppeteers of the Junior League Marionettes is presented at the left, the photograph having been taken during the rehearsal of the fairy tale, "Hansel and Gretel," which will be a part of the program presented Saturday morning at the Buckhead theater. The puppeteers include, left to right, Mesdames Edward Van Winkle, Jr., William Huger, Rutherford Ellis and Robert Crichton. The two figures are Mrs. Murdock Equeen, left, and Mrs. Wiley Ballard, efficient chairman of the Marionettes, who are shown illustrating how the puppets are controlled by means of intricate strings. Photographs by Kenneth Rogers, staff photographer.

BY ANNIE LOU HARDY.

Versatile to a marked degree as a unit, and indefatigable both collectively and individually, the Atlanta Junior League pursues its program of wide and varied philanthropic undertakings with as much confidence of success as though it possessed Aladdin's lamp. And one glimpse into the basement studio of the Ten Eyck Brown home, generously donated to the League's exclusive use by Mrs. Brown, causes one to cast surreptitious glances in search of the magic vessel. For there the Junior League Marionettes have come into being. There they have been created—from the tiniest doll with its intricate strings to the elaborately curtained and lighted stage upon which it is presented—fashioned entirely by the nimble fingers of the League members, under the guiding genius of Mrs. Wiley Ballard, chairman, who in addition to conceiving the idea of the Marionettes has seen its development carried through to perfection.

Dropping into the studio early one rainy morning this week, it presented a scene of bustling activity and resembled nothing so much as Kris Kringle's own workshop, for preparations were being made and rehearsals were under way for the presentation of the Marionettes at the Buckhead theater at 10:30 o'clock tomorrow morning.

An entrancing scene from the ever popular "Hansel and Gretel" was being enacted upon the miniature stage, with all the earnestness and expression of a real drama. A foursome of exceedingly clever puppeteers controlled the complicated mechanisms and spoke the lines, so dear to childish hearts, of Hansel, Gretel, the wicked stepmother, and Prince, the dog. Last minute touches were being put to the stage settings. Costumes were being fashioned and fitted with complete regard for the characters who will wear them. Makeup was being tried before the footlights to get the proper effects. Songs and dances were being rehearsed by the tiny dolls who exhibited life-like grace and poise.

Fairy Tales Dramatized. Saturday's program will include two of the most familiar of Grimm's fairy tales, "Hansel and Gretel" and "Cinderella," which have been especially dramatized for production by the Junior League. The occasion is anticipated with ecstatic joy by members of the very young set of society, and such a performance never fails to attract a gathering of grown-ups who find irresistible fascination in the little puppets.

The creative genius of dramatists, designers, mechanics, directors, artists, actors, modistes, cabinet makers and musicians has been called upon to produce the Marionettes, and never once has the talent been sought outside the ranks of the League. Even the carpentering and the modern lighting effects employed in the model stage were done by these young women, who are daunted by nothing—not even saws, hammers and electric shocks—that is needed to carry forward their plans.

The vivid crimson satin curtains that drape the stage are effectively edged with gold fringe, and the cornice from which they hang is finished in red and gold polychrome. Miss Frances Brown, Mrs. Emory Cooke and Mrs. Benson Tigner have designed and painted the scenery, which includes three sets each for the two dramas to be depicted. In "Hansel and Gretel" the scenes are the woodman's cottage, the forest, and the witch's house; while the action in "Cinderella" takes place in the kitchen, the prince's ballroom, and the balcony outside the palace. The cast of the former includes Mrs. Rutherford Ellis as Hansel; Mrs. Edwin Van Winkle as Gretel; Mrs. Robert Crichton as Prince; the dog; Mrs. William Huger as the stepmother; and Mrs. Murdock Equeen as the witch. In "Cinderella" the title role is taken by Mrs. John Otley, Jr.; the prince is enacted by Mrs. Edward Van Winkle; the stepmother by Mrs. William Fulghum; the older sister by Mrs. Nisbet Marve; the younger sister by Mrs. Bruce Woodruff; the godmother by Mrs. Charles Rawson; courtiers by Mrs. Wiley Ballard and Mrs. Charles Rawson.

Mrs. Mary Nelson Ream and Mrs. William D. Ellis III are chairmen of properties for the plays, which include in addition to complete sets of furnishings for the woodman's cottage and the prince's ballroom, a dazzlingly beautiful gilded coach which is the artistic work of Mrs. Frank Albcorn, and a marvellously wrought gingerbread house. Mrs. Ballard, who supervised the making of the puppets, was ably assisted by Mrs. Perrin Nicholson, Jr., who has been a tireless worker in all phases of the production.

Story Book Companions. Appropriate musical selections accompany the plays, and no detail has been overlooked which helps to make the production of the beloved tales real to the youthful audiences who untiringly go into raptures when they see their story-book companions come to life. Cinderella's Prince Charming is a dashing figure in red velvet with a graceful plume waving from his hat. His courtiers are resplendent in satin and gilt. The old witch carries the ubiquitous broomstick and Prince, the dog, is an energetic black and white canine who barks a joyful refrain to the songs and dances by Hansel and Gretel. Long hours of painstaking, tedious application were required to fashion these puppets, who boast real hair, delicately painted faces and graceful, well-proportioned bodies. Their costumes, too, are worthy creations, every stitch of which is the work of the league members, even to their hats, their tiny shoes and stockings.

The admission charge for tomorrow's production is 25 cents, and

Miss Cunningham To Speak Sunday At High Museum

Miss Cunningham and her marionettes will be the feature of the Sunday afternoon entertainment at High Museum, May 10. Miss Cunningham will speak of the marionette profession in its mechanical and historical aspects. After a brief review of the historical place occupied by marionettes, coming down from most ancient past, she will take the audience into her confidence and explain something of modern methods of manipulating the puppets. Some of her puppets perform quite remarkable actions, for which complicated and delicate appliances are necessary.

In her stage work, Cornelia Cunningham is assisted by Janet Mills Shepherd, who directs the performances of these miniature people with the same care bestowed upon her productions of more serious drama. Sunday afternoon Miss Cunningham and Mrs. Shepherd will illustrate the lecture by showing the marionettes in some of their popular skits. They have selected the numbers which will display the more complicated actions of their play people. Among these will be "Patricia, the Passionate Pianist," who performs upon a tiny grand piano in a manner which a Paderewski might envy. There is also "Katinka," who dances for the soldier captain—and shocks even his hardened sensibilities. The final number will be a scene from the newest play in the marionettes' repertory, "The Lovely Princess in the Blue Mountain." It is the moving episode of the combat between the heroic soldier and the intelligent bear, and combines a display of physical prowess and brilliant intellectual attainment which must be seen to be properly appreciated. The lecture begins at 3 o'clock.

Tickets may be procured from any member of the Junior League. They will also be on sale at the office of the Buckhead theater today and tomorrow. The work of puppetry forms an important part of the larger program of the Association of Junior Leagues to provide suitable entertainment for children, a phase that has been carried on most successfully. Not only are the programs given as a means of raising funds for the extensive charitable program sponsored by the organization, but many times they have been presented without charge before poor and afflicted children, who have little joy in their stunted lives—a tacit illustration of the love and sympathy borne for unfortunate humanity by this splendid band of prominent young society women.

The same earnestness of purpose, coupled with an indomitable will to succeed, that characterizes the presentation of a simple fairy tale, has carried the organization through to brilliant success in former days in the gigantic production of numerous editions of the Junior League Follies, in the staging of an all-star golf match, or a brilliant fashion revue. Such dazzling triumphs are another reason for suspecting an alignment with Aladdin!

U.D.C. Will Sponsor Bridge-Tea For Maury Scholarship Fund

Mrs. D. F. Stevenson, state director for the Matthew Fontaine Maury scholarship fund, has received an invitation through the director of the Hall of Fame from the chancery, council and senate of New York University to be present at the unveiling of the bust of Matthew Fontaine Maury, in the colonnade of the Hall of Fame on University Heights May 14. Credit is due the United Daughters of the Confederacy that this timely recognition of "The Pathfinder of the Sea" has at last been consummated.

Mrs. Rouse's Pupils Give Cantata

Studio Arts Club presents a program apropos of Music Week Wednesday afternoon. Mrs. David E. Rouse, voice teacher and composer, entertained a group of music lovers, with the first hearing of her new cantata, "A Day With the Birds." Mrs. Rouse, who is a newcomer to the south, is counselor of the Atlanta Junior Music Club, and director of the chorus, whose members provided the solo and ensemble parts of this cantata. The cantata opens in the wood at early dawn, with the rustling of leaves, a faint twitter of birds, and dawn, daybreak and spring appears. A bird lover tips quietly and sits with his book, noting down the sounds. The bird calls form themes which weave in and out in beautiful harmony, and the voices of the children who sang it were pure and musical. The opening and final chorus, "Dawn" and "Twilight," were sung by a two-voiced ensemble. After "Dawn" came the song of the "Blue Bird," sung by Margaret Pyne; "House Wren," Willatha Goodman; "Blue Bird," Virginia Alexander; "Meadow Lark," Ellen Hudson; "Song Sparrow," Marie Barinowski; "Robin," Margaret Hanson; "Tufted Titmouse," Audine Kelson; "Red Bird," Gladys Eves; "Mockingbird," Bowen David, Jr.; "Chickadee," Jean Fambrough; "Wood Thrush," Margaret Stokely; ended by "Twilight," and the goodnight before rest. Miss Linda Roberts was a pleasing accompanist.

Preceding the cantata Bowen David, Jr., winner of the first prize in violin, Class B, at the state junior music contest, held in Gainesville in April, played the winning pieces, "Concerto, No. 3," by Sietz, and "Madrigal" by Simonetti. Mrs. Rubye Head Lewis was accompanist.

Members of the cantata ensemble were: Edna Earl Alexander, Aneta Aspinwall, Cornelia Callaway, Gladys

E. Phillips, the Atlanta chapter presented to the Naval Academy a portrait of Matthew Fontaine Maury which hangs on the walls of the academy. A fund of $10,000 is being raised by the U. D. C. as a basis for a scholarship to St. John's College at Annapolis in honor of Maury. Tomorrow afternoon a mammoth bridge-tea will be given at the home of Mrs. John Marshall Slator, chairman for the Maury fund. Many reservations have been made with Mrs. W. D. White, president of the Atlanta chapter, securing the first table and donating the first prize. The public is invited and reservations may be made by telephoning Cherokee 3611 or Hemlock 5596. Guests are requested to bring pencils and cards. The party will commence at 2 o'clock. Donated prizes are to be sent to Mrs. Slator's home Saturday morning.

CRASH HURTS FATAL TO SCHNEIDER WINNER

ALDERSHOT, England, May 7.—(AP)—Flight Lieutenant H. R. D. Wagner, winner of the Schneider cup trophy in 1929, died at Cambridge military hospital today from injuries received when his plane crashed near Farnborough Tuesday. Lieutenant Wagner and a fellow pilot, E. R. Alexander, took to their parachutes when their ship went out of control in a high gale. The former landed on the roof of a shed, sustaining injuries to his head and limbs. Alexander was not as seriously hurt. The flyer underwent an operation last night but he gradually grew worse. His wife maintained a ceaseless vigil by his bedside until he died. He is also survived by a son. Lieutenant Wagner attained a speed of 328.63 miles per hour in retaining the Schneider cup for Great Britain two years ago. Starting to fly at the age of 18, his was early nicknamed "Daisy" in recognition of a descent into a daisy field and later was heralded as one of England's premier aerobatic aviators. Other distinguished airmen who have lost their lives this year are Wing Commander Tucker, commander of the Mount Batten air station, who as killed with eight others when a seaplane dove into Plymouth Sound February 4, and Air Vice Marshall Holt, who fell to his death on April 23 when two army planes collided in midair near Chichester.

Phi Delta Kappas To Present Mother's Day Program Sunday

Georgia Alpha chapter of the Phi Delta Kappa fraternity will present their Mothers' Day program Sunday afternoon at 4 o'clock at the chapter house, 2520 Memorial drive. The beautiful Mothers' Day ritual, which will be a part of the program, was presented before the public for the first time last year. This ritual was written by a member of the fraternity, Rev. Herbert C. Cornuelle, of the Phi chapter at Elwood, Ind.

The musical portion of the program is under the direction of Julien R. Graham, a member of the choir of St. Luke's Episcopal church. Mr. Graham will sing several numbers and will be assisted by Miss Grace Dodd, pianist, and C. D. Kimbrough, baritone soloist. The address of the afternoon will be given by Platt Young, well-known Atlanta publisher and writer. Mr. Young will pay a tribute to all motherhood.

The committee in charge of arrangements consists of Thomas H. Eubanks, Theodore Bayley and Kenneth D. Cooper. A group of young ladies, friends of the chapter, will serve as ushers.

Following the program an informal reception will be held for those attending and the mothers of the fraternity members will be special guests for the afternoon. The following organizations have been invited to attend in a body, the Eta chapter of the Tau Beta Phi sorority, the local chapter of the Tau Phi sorority and the EEE class of the Second Baptist church. Friends of the chapter members and any others interested in the program are cordially invited to be present.

Members of the local chapter of the Phi Delta Kappa fraternity are: Thomas H. Eubanks, Herbert Whidby, Earl Embree, Frank N. PEACHTREE GARDEN CLUB STAGES FLOWER SHOW MAY 14

Exhibit Will Take Place At Piedmont Driving Club

Elaborate plans are being made by members of the Peachtree Garden Club for the ninth spring flower show to be held Thursday, May 14, at 3 o'clock at the Piedmont Driving Club. Mrs. Phinley Calhoun is chairman of the flower show committee and requests all members to exhibit. A cordial invitation is extended to all flower lovers to attend the show at which Mrs. Robert L. Cooney, president of the Peachtree Garden Club, and Mrs. Calhoun will be assisted in receiving by the officers, committee chairmen and members. Officers of the club are: Mrs. Robert L. Cooney, president; Mrs. Samuel Inman, first vice president; Mrs. Malcolm Fleming, second vice president; Mrs. Charles Case, recording secretary; Mrs. James D. Robinson, corresponding secretary; Mrs. Albert Thornton, treasurer.

Classes Announced.

The following classes in which exhibits will be arranged with the names of chairmen are announced: Class A, best collection of perennials. Not more than three of kind to be shown. Receptacles furnished by club. Number of varieties will count 40 per cent. Stem and foliage 20 per cent. Chairman in charge of Class A, Mrs. Evelyn Harris.

Class B, best perennial raised from seed. Best perennial raised from seed without professional assistance. One room to be shown. Separate table for this class. Flowers can be removed from other classes for this exhibit. Chairman in charge of Class B, Mrs. Evelyn Harris.

Class C, best collection of flowering shrubs and vines: One branch of each variety to be shown. Receptacles to be furnished by club. Number of varieties will count 50 per cent. Quality of bloom and foliage will count 50 per cent. Chairman in charge of Class C, Mrs. Hunter Perry. There will be separate classes for roses, iris, lilies, etc., and any other flowers in season. There must be entries of the same flower by three different exhibitors to constitute a class. Not more than three blooms of each variety to be shown. Receptacles to be furnished by club. Chairman in charge of these classes, Mrs. Frank Adair.

There will be an award for the best perennial in the show, one for the best annual in the show, and one for the best flowering shrub in the show. To be selected from any classes, except arrangements and competitive tables.

Governor's Horse Guard Gives Dinner at Athletic Club

The Governor's Horse Guard entertained at a military dinner at the Atlanta Athletic Club Wednesday evening at 8 o'clock. The banquet was in honor of Major J. B. Fraser and Captain M. H. Patton, army officers who are on an inspection tour of the cavalry national guard units of the state. The affair was attended by 80 members and guests. Captain Theodore Goulsby, commander of the Governor's Horse Guard, acted as toastmaster and introduced the speakers, some of whom told interesting anecdotes of their experience during former military service, many of them having been members of the Horse Guard in the past. Major Trammell Scott told of his experience in an observation balloon on the front during the late war, while Walter Candler, former officer in the troop, spoke of the traditions of the Horse Guard as a very old Atlanta organization.

Lieutenant W. U. Moran, chairman of the entertainment committee, arranged a program including several novel songs and dance numbers given by a team composed of Miss Katherine Robinson, Miss Bobby Nansworthy and Miss Evelyn Kidd. During the dinner a miniature boxing match was staged by Master Harry Broadnax and Master Buster Roberts. Jack Hastings and John Dunwoody.

She asked particularly for copies of the Oration edition of "The World's 50 Best Short Novels." "These would add materially to the completeness of the library," she said, "and would be greatly appreciated."

Mother's Day Program at All Saints' Church

Joseph Ragan, organist and master of the chorists of All Saints' Episcopal church, has announced a musical program for Mother's Day to be given at the 11 o'clock service. Mr. Ragan will be assisted by Miss Jacqueline Moore, harpist, and George F. Lindner, violinist, with the large vested choir.

Both Miss Moore and Mr. Lindner are well known in Atlanta's musical circles. Miss Moore being one of the most talented young harpists of the south, and Mr. Lindner being the director of the Atlanta Conservatory. The trio, violin, harp and organ, will play "Meditation," Bach-Gounod, as a prelude. The offertory anthem will be Bartlett's "Your Voices Raise With One Accord," sung by the choir, accompanied by violin, harp and organ. The soloists in the choir are Mrs. J. C. Richardson, soprano; Mrs. S. G. Stokes, contralto; Frank A. Cundell, tenor, and E. B. Bray, bass. Dr. W. W. Memminger will deliver the Mother's Day address.

Benefit Postponed.

Mrs. Alva D. Kiser, recorder of crosses, Atlanta chapter, U. D. C., has postponed her benefit party to have been given this evening. The new date will be announced later.

Contributions to Berry Schools Urged as Mother's Day Gifts

BY IDA FRANCES WING.

Mother-love, that imperishable quality which the years cannot change or misfortune alter, will be preserved at the Martha Berry school in a monument. A monument, which is not to be a marble shaft where cold surfaces are chiseled with an inscription to mother, nor flowers, whose radiant beauty soon fades, but a building—a building to be used as a dormitory for girls, where the warm presence and joyful laughter of youth will echo through the halls as a living, pulsing monument to mothers throughout the ages.

At present the building is nearing completion on a beautiful spot on the campus of the Martha Berry schools, where virgin oaks lift wide-spreading branches. But building funds are lacking and an additional $30,000 is needed to lay the floors and complete the unit. A hundred girls are eagerly awaiting the completion of the dormitory to obtain the education and enjoy the happy campus life of Miss Martha Berry's "children." Generous contributions of many mothers have made the building possible, and now an appeal is being made for additional monetary gifts from those by whom the thought of mother is cherished.

Instead of giving flowers for mother, whose tender presence makes more precious the households throughout the country or of the sainted mothers whose memories are revered by their children, the great human heart of the ever loyal south is urged to express its Mother's Day thought in sharing in the completion of the Mother's building. Big sums or little sums are welcomed, and the new building, with its white walls and shining new floors, will stand on the green campus as a sacred tribute to mothers, whose daughters of generations to come will "rise up and call them blessed."

O. B. X. Club.

SIR JAMES H. JEANE VISITS MOUNT WILSON

MOUNT WILSON OBSERVATORY, Cal., May 7.—(AP)—One of the world's thinkers about what's going on in the universe came up today to the earth's best window from which one may gaze out upon the mysteries of the skies.

Sir James Hopwood Jeane, prominent British astronomer, had a seat reserved for him tonight on the turret of the 100-inch mirror telescope to watch what he says is the universe going to pieces.

With him were Dr. Walter S. Adams, director of the Carnegie institution of Washington observatory, and Dr. Edwin Hubble, who has been exploring of 30,000,000 island universes.

This is the second visit of Sir James to the world's largest telescope, his first having been seven years ago. He is much fascinated with its operation, since the disclosures from it have been largely responsible for his estimates about the annihilation of the universe.

For more than a week the noted Briton has been engaged at the Mount Wilson laboratory at Pasadena, a mile below the observatory here, in going over with the astronomers and physicists the result of their investigations. He is a research associate of the Carnegie institution of Washington observatory here.

Weather permitting, that is if seeing is good, he planned to spend most of the night gazing into the remotest fringes of the skies where Hubble found island universes dashing away with apparent tremendous velocities upwards of 11,000 miles per second.

At the observatory Jeane was greeted by Dr. Paul W. Werrill, who is measuring the motions of stars, and Dr. Gustaf Stromgren, who has been studying the island universe of 30,000,000 stars in which the earth moves.

Sir James announced today that he will leave for Monte Carlo Monday having an engagement in Washington on May 18, and going to Philadelphia May 20 to receive the Franklin society gold medal for his astronomical and physics work.

AUDITS OF LIBRARY BODIES SUBMITTED

Annual audits of the state library and state library commission were submitted to Governor Hardman Thursday by State Auditor Tom Wilson.

The library received $21,535.82 from the treasury in the form of appropriations, and the largest amount was spent for books and periodicals. Total outlay for new books was $17,221.78, $286.96 for periodicals, $16 for bindings and $243.34 for book cases and cabinets. Salaries amounted to only $2,418.51.

Receipts of the library commission amounted to $10,100. Salaries, traveling expenses and other amounts amounted to $7,079.10, and $2,020.90 was spent on new books and bindings.

Field Day Exercises At Grant Field Today

More than 1,000 pupils of the Atlanta elementary schools will participate in the annual field day events to be held at Grant field, Georgia Tech, beginning at 12:30 o'clock today.

The exercises will be featured by a series of track contests and trials and the final play-off in games. Volleyball, basketball, football, potato relay and shuttle relay will be among the contests.

The public is invited to attend the field day games, which will be in charge of Miss M. N. Graves, director of physical education for the elementary schools.

Senior Dramatic Club of Girls' High School To Present "Lilies of the Field" Saturday

Clothes make the man in the opinion of these young ladies, half of whom have been called upon to take the part of men in the presentation of "Lilies of the Field" at 2:30 and 8:30 o'clock Saturday in the Atlanta Woman's Club. The four young ladies shown above are the Misses Marion West, Martha Nash, Virginia Byers and Carolyn Strauss, all members of the dramatic club of Girls' High School.

"The Lilies of the Field," a delightful English comedy, will be presented Saturday at the Atlanta Woman's Club by the senior dramatic club of Girls' High School. The plot tells of the adventures of village twins in London, where they lay aside their toiling and spinning to become "lilies of the field" instead of "pansies of the personage."

The cast is composed of a group of unusually talented players, directed by Miss Emma Gregory. The dancing is planned and supervised by Miss Gertrude Cadwell.

The wit and humor throughout makes "The Lilies of the Field" enjoyable for all members of the family. The public is cordially invited. The afternoon performance begins at 2:30, evening at 8:30.

Problems of general interest submitted by readers will be discussed in this column. Correspondence invited. Your name held in confidence. Write Miss Chatfield, care The Atlanta Constitution.

DEAR MISS CHATFIELD: I have been married 30 years to a woman who has confined to nag me and accuse me of serious offenses during all these years. I am not guilty of any of her accusations. I have provided her a good home, taken care of her, but she is so unappreciative and unkind that my life is miserable. We live in a quiet community where the neighbors are neighborly but my wife is never on good terms with any of them. We all have our peculiarities but hers are so many and so large that I don't see how I am to go on this way. What shall I do? JACK.

ANSWER: It is easy to tell others how to endure hardships and to turn the other cheek, but it is fearfully hard to do it. I know that as well as you do. Thirty years is a long time to live with a nagging wife. Of all the bad traits a woman can have, nagging heads the list. The habit of nagging in a wife in the home is like Jerusalem artichoke in the garden: Once it gets a start it is almost impossible to control it. You can cut the shoots off in the spring and dig the roots up in the fall but the same thing has to be done over and over until you despair. In August when the yellow blossoms are very pretty and you can enjoy them. It is so with the nagging wife. When she is nagging, you want to kill her but some times she exhibits traits that are positively beautiful and you are glad you haven't killed her.

It very often happens that when we live with people who have ugly traits we don't discuss them except in anger. It is a big mistake. Anger discards everything we say. So I suggest that you sit down quietly with your wife when neither of you is in temper and tell her that she is making you miserable and that you are willing to make reasonable concessions to her passion for regulating your life but that you are not going to put up with her false accusations and her continual fault finding. You can tell her, furthermore, that any one is likely to fall out with a neighbor sometimes but that her habit of being on bad terms with all of them proves conclusively that she is responsible for the warfare that goes on constantly.

You know that any 30-year-old habit cannot be cured in a few days. You know that she has "put it over" her husband for the length of their married life is not going to relinquish that luxury without a struggle. The tree that grows crooked can be straightened easily in youth but when it is old it is another matter. It must be done slowly, a little straightening at a time.

If you fail to convince your wife that she is at fault, you have one more card to play before you resort to separation. You can harden your heart to her abuse. You can turn a deaf ear to her accusations. You can treat her like the psycho-patient patient that she is. That would be much better than a separation. People who have lived together for 30 years ought to be able to live together to the end. However, there is no reason for a man to submit to unjust and unfair treatment from his wife throughout his whole life. If he has submitted to it for 30 years without protest, then he should begin immediately to assert himself and unless the wife is actually insane she will honor him the more for his declaration of independence. CAROLINE CHATFIELD.

LA FOLLETTE SIGNS OLEOMARGARINE TAX

MADISON, Wis., May 7.—(AP)—Governor Philip F. La Follette today signed the bill imposing drastic taxes on makers and dealers of oleomargarine and similar products. The bill was introduced to protect the state's butter and dairy industry and will become effective in 1932.

Under its provisions, manufacturers of oleomargarine, butterine or similar substances made in imitation or semblance of butter, must pay an annual license of $1,000, while wholesalers' licenses are $500 annually.

Retail dealers must buy licenses ranging from $100 to $400, dependent upon amount of sales. Proprietors of hotels and restaurants must pay $100 license while proprietors of boarding houses serving butter substitutes must pay a $50 license fee.

WHITE SULPHUR HOTEL TO HONOR OLD GUARD

Members of the Old Guard battalion, one of Georgia's most historic military organizations, will be guests Saturday, May 16, of the White Sulphur Hotel and Mr. Goodman's aunt, Mrs. H. M. Strickland, operators of the hotel at White Sulphur Springs. It was announced Thursday by Will L. Hancock, chairman of the entertainment committee of the battalion.

The Atlanta party will leave Atlanta on the 15th Street garage at 2:30. The party will be under the direction of Walter Hancock, Goodloe Yancy, Charles Duff and the Meyers, directors of the motorcade.

BEAUTY FASHIONS

One of the big problems among producers is keying free love subtly. When modern furniture first became popular you knew immediately that the lady was loose if the furniture was all angles and there was plenty of gleaming black—blond satiny wood, zebra rugs and metal in evidence in her apartment.

Before that a cigar dripping from a loosely hung lip and a deck of cards being flipped in solitary told the sordid tale.

Today free love takes to the roofs. The pent house is the thing—for the movies if you're without benefit of clergy. And they're becoming more and more so. There are whispers of sex pictures being released this month which will surpass everything done in motion picture history in their brazen modernness.

Those Hollywood servants! That change almost with the types of the employers. The fine straight-backed Celtic women uniformed in grey-blue moire silk with the sheers of organdy aprons and caps which make the John McCormack household run on oiled wheels have no duplicate in cinematicland.

Roland Young's Japanese crew are without peer for thoroughgoing, all-round efficiency. Laura Hope Crews' staff, uniformed in severe black satin with exquisite batiste and embroidered, suit the lovely severity of her colonial home.

Alice Glazer likes hers continental in type—and gets it. Her butler is the sort you find in France.

"Interior decorators are doing big business in the colony these days. One had whose charges are very steep was speaking to one of his customers the other day when a woman at the table spoke up:

"I'm going to build and I'd like to get you."

"Delighted," he said graciously, "but you'll have to wait about four months—there's a list ahead of you."

In these hard times!

12 Years To Catalog "A" Scotch Words

CHICAGO, May 7.—(AP)—That traditional Scotch economy didn't extend to the vocabulary.

Professor Sir William A. Craigie, of Chicago University, revealed today he's been searching for words used by ancient Scots between the twelfth and seventeenth centuries, and after 12 years he's only got the A's complete. They'll be published in June. Twenty-four other volumes are to follow as part of a "dictionary."

The team is composed of Bill Reese, Tom Tumlin, Jack Torrance, Billy Glenn and Frank Morrison.

Tech and Oglethorpe Open Series Today; Florida Invades Auburn

GATE CITY TITLE GOES TO WINNER AT OGLETHORPE

Auburn, Needing One Game To Cinch Flag, Plays Florida.

By Herb Clark.

Next to next-to-closing series which is, as you must know, a pretty good spot—find two-thirds of Dixie League collegiate contingent stepping into action on two fronts today and tomorrow.

Atlanta will get its big thrill out on Peachtree road. Tech's Yellow Jackets and Oglethorpe's Petrels concluding their battle for the city crown and a probable second place in the league on Hermance field; these Tigers from Auburn, needing but one victory in four attempts to cinch the loop crown, meet Florida half-way at Panama City; Georgia and Mercer are idle.

Auburn is in the position of the 1st with the four easy right now. Dear old Auburn is casting a nonchalant eye down the throats of the opposition, checking a lock in any six-handed game.

LONG SHOTS.

Present castings of figures make Tech and Florida each 1,000-1 shots for the big prize. Oglethorpe is a write-your-own ticket for a tie, Georgia and Mercer are impossibles. Either the Jackets or the 'Gators, each with six games left, can win the lot and have the title—provided the Tigers are considerate enough to lose all of their remaining four games. Oglethorpe, with, also, four games left, can do no better than tie even should Auburn break a leg and the Petrels blast the Tech machine.

Which puts all the more pressure on the series at Hermance field this afternoon. Playing at the Flats some several weeks ago, the two teams divided their two games. Since then the Petrels have held the 500 pace they were setting then; Tech has climbed from 333 to that same fifty-fifty mark.

PITCHERS DOUBTFUL. Pitching choices in both camps were in doubt Thursday afternoon. The two-game bullpen performances will decide the starters. Finishers will be named when, as and if necessary.

And it will be Tech and Oglethorpe all over again, with Dixie title chances and the city crown at stake to further speed—as if that were necessary—the action.

And Auburn, for purposes of record, is 1-1, out, out as the field makes the back turn.

The Plainsmen, still needing that
